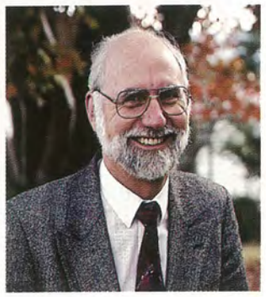
LEARNING AND SERVING TOGETHER

What does Avondale mean to you? Is it the muffins in the cafeteria before a 7.30 am class? Is it a sleepless night during exam time? Is it a game of basketball in the Audo or a film night in the Ed Hall? Maybe, Avondale is a Tuesday night worship or a quiet prayer group? Perhaps it is spending time with friends at the Swing Bridge or a late night in a neighbour's room?

Avondale is many things but it would be nothing without people. People with different goals and dreams, different backgrounds and ways of thinking, people who make Avondale a part of themselves. Jacaranda 1994 is about capturing the different moments that give Avondale meaning. Each chapter scans a small part of college life, building on the concept that in the time we spend at Avondale we are learning and serving together.



The Jacaranda Literary Editor has asked me to explain what it is about Avondale College that makes it different from other tertiary institutions.

Is it the students? Is it the staff? Is it a vision of world needs? Is it our philosophy of education? Is it because of our Seventh-day Adventist values?

Avondale is different not because of any one of these factors, not even because of all of them, but much more importantly because of the way they are mixed together. Think of it as a special recipe which combines otherwise ordinary ingredients in a special way. Let me give you my recipe for Avondale. Take a group of fine young people and mix with dedicated SDA staff. Add a cupful of concern for world needs, sweeten with Adventist values, and stir vigorously with a Christ-centred philosophy of education. Place the mixture on a rural property and allow it to mature for 97 years. The result is an education, unique and distinct: one which has withstood the test of time but meets the needs of today.

How is this difference seen in practice? We see it when we look at students and staff working together on projects: evangelism in New Life Down Under, service to the less fortunate in Fly and Build excursions, helping out at Mirriwinni Gardens Aboriginal School, and in community service digging gardens for project HOE. We see it as students lead out in worship, in the faces of those committing themselves to Christ, and in the helpfulness and concern shown one toward another day in and day out. We see it as our graduates, whether employed or in pursuit of higher degrees still reach out to help others inspired by the love of Jesus.

Am I being selective? Of course. Nothing in this world is perfect and Avondale is no exception, but that does not stop it from being a special place. Most of our students, present and past, would tell you that.

MR ALWYN GALWEY

Alwyn Galwey is a committed man - committed to his Lord, committed to his church. Alwyn's friends and colleagues find him trustworthy and consistent. He treats all people as equals and he is a loving and dedicated family man. Alwyn Galwey has been described as "a quiet achiever".

Alwyn completed eleven years of mission service in Papua New Guinea, working as a District Director. His roles included ministry, teaching and nursing. In Australia he has held a number of church leadership positions including senior elder and interim pastor of the Modbury Church, South Australia.

He has held the positions of lecturer and Deputy Head of the Schools of Nursing at Modbury Hospital and Sydney Adventist Hospital. Today he is Head of the School of Nursing, Avondale College, Wahroonga Campus. At the end of 1994 Alwyn will complete his PhD.

Students respect Alwyn Galwey for his unwavering fairness. They appreciate his dry sense of humour and his innovative teaching methods. Alwyn Galwey's life and career have consistently drawn students towards the goal of learning and serving together.

TOGETHERNESS

LEARNING AND SERVING TOGETHER

Everyone in life is on a different journey. Throughout this journey people touch and leave fingerprints in the moulding of each others' lives. At Avondale for one brief period of time we all meet here together and in some way connect. Some stay for a while, others stay only for a short period of time; but regardless of the time we spend at this stepping stone in life, we all are affected and acquire memories which influence us, and we are never the same again.

Avondale provides a place of study for people from all different countries and cultures to make friendships that will last a lifetime.

"Hi Mum!"

Friends are an important part of my life at college. I've found many special friends and everyone of them is different. We share a lot of good times, and precious memories. But I would never have formed such valuable friendships if I hadn't come to Avondale.

The few short years I have spent here have been filled with Christian fellowship and the development of beautiful life long friendships, both of which are special hugs from God. The memories made here are treasures that I will carry with me throughout my life.

WORSHIP

LEARNING AND SERVING TOGETHER

It is another Friday evening at Avondale. Sabbath has just been welcomed in and Vespers starts at 7.30 pm. Tomorrow students will be involved in the College Church Sabbath School and Worship hour, as well as in various churches around the district.

Worship is a special part of our time together. Time spent growing with each other and with God. Avondale is a place where God can be met in many unique ways and made very real. Morning and evening worships and informal devotions with friends allow opportunities for the development of a strong relationship with God.

At Avondale we are learning to serve God and the people around us.

A UNIQUE PLACE TO WORSHIP GOD

Not many Adventist churches in Australia have bus loads of tourists visit their complexes. They do visit our College church. Clearly the building is special, it seats around 1,000 people and has been designed to give a sense of involvement and participation in worship. It is a place that encourages dynamic worship. The most unique aspect of our church is the people who use it. The church draws its participants from the community, from the student body and from the staff of the college. This is a church for all people and for their particular needs. The church exists because students attend Avondale College. In no other Adventist church in Australia is there such a large and vibrant group of youth worshipping together. Because of this students have the opportunity to be actively involved in College church.

CAMPUS MINISTRIES REPORT

This year Campus Ministries has worked hard on making Tuesday and Thursday night worships a special part of College life. Many students have commented on the increased spiritual tone on campus in 1994 which was reflected in worship participation. Activities included trips to Swansea and Bowral churches with college students planning the entire day. Street witnessing once again provided many interesting experiences as students showed others that at Avondale we care.

"I believe the old saying 'God is where you find him'. This is true of the spirituality at College, as it runs hot and cold. For me Avondale College has changed my spiritual life, giving me a positive new direction for the future. A relationship with God is being offered to us all. I pray we earnestly seek it."

LEARNING

LEARNING AND SERVING TOGETHER

The Sanitarium factory hums away in the distance - Les Rowe heads around on another security check. A possum races across the dorm roof.

What are you doing up at three in the morning? It is all part of your time at Avondale.

You have an essay that is due in today and there is that book report that was supposed to be under the lecturer's door by 5.00 pm yesterday. You are listed to be presenting a tutorial before the end of the week and what about that reading test coming up soon? Did you pay to do this?

Avondale is a place where we can broaden our minds, a place where we can learn to think in new ways. It is a place that fosters excellence in the pursuit of academic achievement. The learning is set in an environment where lecturers care on an individual level and really want the best for each of us.

We are learning and serving together.

Getting or giving? Since its inception in 1894, Avondale College has had a dual focus on learning and serving - notice our motto: "For a greater vision of world needs". That is still the case in 1994. Indeed it is this consistent emphasis on service that makes Avondale unique among the centres of higher education in Australia and New Zealand. Avondale is a place where people are challenged not only to learn but also to serve their God and to make this world a better place.

WORKING

It's a typical College afternoon. Steve Kane is mowing the lawn, Leteysha Manthey wishes you well as you leave the Library. Kevin Jones bags up the afternoon mail while Melonie Richards is serving in the Bookshop. Ben Waechter is working on reception, Donna Devereux is working in the DOSS Office, Ken Tosen makes another bus run while Tania Devenish cleans up after a Biology prac.

For many students work is an important part of College. Avondale offers a unique program where a wide variety of student work is available. From supervising the swimming pool to working on PA, from maintenance to being on the fire team. Many students work at the Sanitarium factory or the Sydney Adventist Hospital.

A break from study, a chance to work off fees. At Avondale in our work we are learning and serving together.

Oh, let's not forget Darren Bain in the Cafeteria. "The Caf' will be closing in 5 minutes - all trays to dish-wash please".

Sydney Adventist Hospital has been inspiring to me physically, psychologically and spiritually. The most important aspect of my time here has been the emotional bonding experience between peers and especially patients. Learning to give is the best experience I have ever had ...

Aloma Anderson

At the San we're lucky because we know what it will be like working as a nurse before we finish our course.

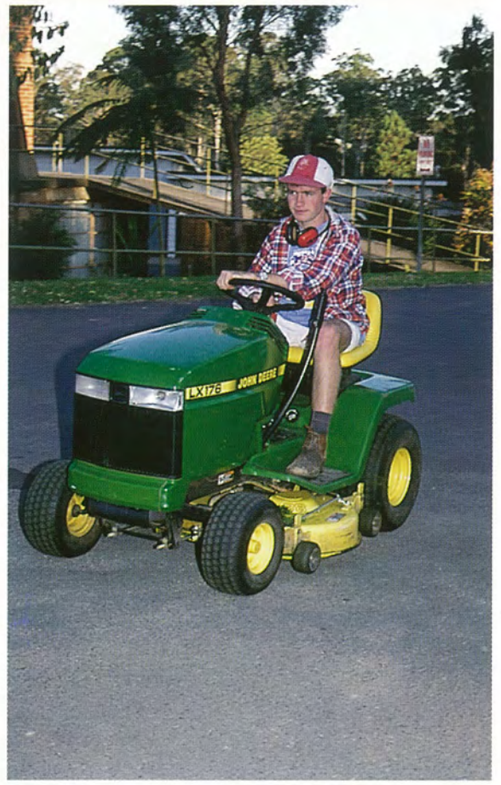
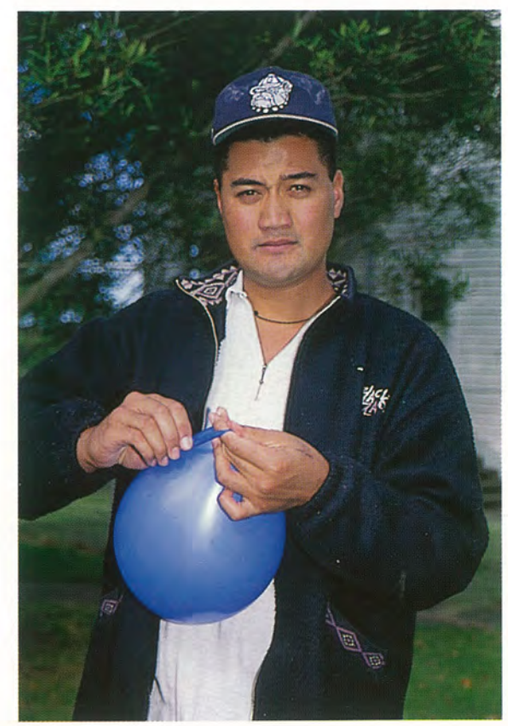
DID YOU KNOW ...

- The Cafeteria uses 480 kg of potatoes every week?
- The Library has over 93,000 books and subscribes to 738 journals?
- There are 6,827 visible bricks behind the choir pews in College Church?
- Students make over 9,000 copies per week on the Library photocopiers?
- Over 12,000 rolls of toilet paper are used each year along with 4,320 rolls of hand towel?
- The most common girl's name in 1994 was Michelle?
- The most common boy's name in 1994 was David?

- Theology students at Avondale have conducted public evangelism campaigns over the last three years as part of their ministerial course work. As a result of these programs they have been responsible for 100 people being baptised.

- Over the past three years, 70% of those who applied for work with the church have been given employment. Many other graduates have gained work in their chosen fields.





What's in the mail?

Avondale is people - especially students. I enjoy spending time with and talking to students. People come and work with me for a while and I hope we have learned from each other. I learn from them and I hope they learn something from me.
Avondale is so many different people and each one has something worthwhile to share.

Mel Hodgson

Avondale's motto is 'A Greater Vision'. Some students capture this vision by helping a mate who is down - others by being involved in community outreach and being part of district church programs. Then there are those students who find the vision further afield.

This year Avondale has eight students who chose to spend a year with Avondale Youth Services overseas:

- Kerralyn Chester - Thailand
- Ruth Dauven - China
- Fiona Hyland - Korea
- Lana Marshall - China
- Katrina Phillips - Korea
- Logan Smith - Scotland
- Fanaua Teoteo - China
- Rachel White - Korea

"This year has been very rewarding. Living and working with a people who have endured so much and can still smile teaches you much about priorities and God's power. I'm not living in an isolated primitive jungle school, but in a special family where we mutually contribute to each other's development against a backdrop of unusual problems."

Kerralyn Chester

"It has been quite scary here. And Chun Cheon being the closest city to the North Korean border doesn't help it any. I ask my students if they think there will be a war - some are not sure and some say most definitely, yes."

RECREATION

LEARNING AND SERVING TOGETHER

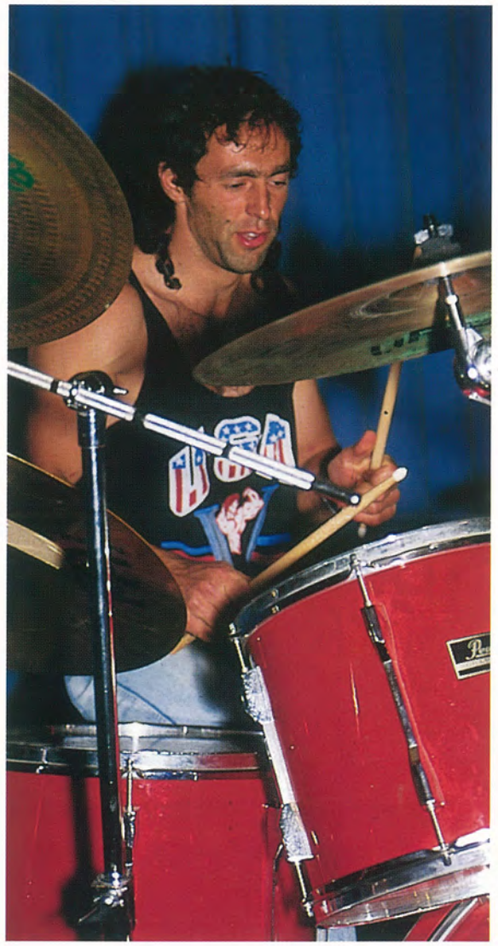
What are you doing this Saturday night? There is a SAC night in the Audo which is sure to be good, or are you going to be toasting marshmallows around a fire on an ABARC camp?

Avondale is far more than study and work. Talent nights, ski days, banquets, film nights, Sydney trips along with many other organised events - there is always something happening!

Then there is recreation time spent with friends, chatting in the hallway, shopping at Charlestown, a jog along girls' walk or shooting baskets in the Audo.

With so many young people in the same place - great times are bound to happen.

In our recreation we are learning and serving together.



ASFA

I hear the question asked occasionally, 'What does ASFA ever do?' In my earlier years of College, I often wondered the same. Perhaps I should have made a suggestion. It is difficult to achieve a lot in one year as many apparently simple problems do not have simple solutions.

ASFA has contributed in a number of ways to improve student life this year. Large changes do not occur immediately, but ASFA continues to pursue ways of improving College. Suggestions made by students have been appreciated. Thank you.

Part of ASFA's responsibility is the canteen. Grant Lynch has spent many hours working to make the canteen an enjoyable place for students to be. Profits made in the canteen benefit the students. The pool table, which was refurbished from these funds, has been in constant use. The juke box has also provided much enjoyment.

Bruce Dever, President

SAC

1994 has been action packed with SAC events. Steal-a-Heart Day along with the 'black Friday' were very successful, thanks to student enthusiasm.

Talent night was a highlight with acts ranging from a piano duet of the Holy City to a somewhat different rendition of the National Anthem.

Other events included film nights, a 60's night, the Barn Night, along with various other social activities.

That bite didn't make much difference

Look at me now Mum!

Sometimes you have to go off campus to enjoy the luxury of solitude, interaction with 'non-peers', driving in a vehicle with less than 12 seats or moving around in living quarters without multiple bathrooms and stairs. As expected, I've found study time-consuming, perhaps even a little more conceptually demanding than I anticipated. But I've also discovered study is not everything. Other dimensions also require expanding. Spiritually there is a great atmosphere here if you choose to associate with those who also consider God the most important part of their being. Physically, there is more than basketball, though I'm sure skills on the court would help. Avondale is what you make it. You get out of it what you put in.

Leanne Walker

ABARC

Avondale Bushwalking and Recreation Club (ABARC) offers students the opportunity to "get out", away from the books, study, and typical college life.

This year we have tried to expand the variety of activities that ABARC offers. The year started with a beach camp offering activities such as snorkelling, surfing, canoeing, water-skiing, or just lazing around the camp fire. An enthusiastic group went down to the Blue Mountains where we were provided with magnificent views of the rock walls as we hiked out to Mount Solitary. The cold water of the Barrington River provided an ideal opportunity for a kayaking weekend. We finished the semester off by crawling around on hands, knees and even stomachs, exploring the Timor Caves.

Thanks to those students who participated.

Kalvin Dever

Life on the edge

Fly and repair

For some students recreation, work and service all come together in the one activity. Each Sunday morning Ken Tosen gathered a group of students and people from the College community to work with him in the HOE (Help Others Eat) garden.

Over the semester break a group of students went to Fiji, on a Fly and Repair. "Not only was it an opportunity to be of service to our brothers and sisters in Fiji it was also a time when the team could experience another culture first hand, have an awesome holiday and grow further in Christ".

Greg Fowler

GRADUATION

LEARNING AND SERVING TOGETHER

It's a December Sunday morning at Avondale. Jacaranda flowers form their purple carpet. Hundreds of cars slowly make their way along College Drive. Proud relatives fill the well-decorated auditorium.

Gowns and caps represent thousands of hours of study and desire to achieve. This is the day that marks completion and the beginning. New challenges await which will be met by the knowledge gained while at Avondale. There is a certain sadness in knowing that this is where the road divides - there is a certain anticipation in knowing that another group is leaving Avondale determined to make a difference in the world "Through the Power of One".

So many people, so many achievements, so many goals reached and set. This is Graduation Day 1993.

AVONDALE COLLEGE LIBRARY

Graduation is another word for celebration. The celebration of past achievements and future possibilities together with friends and families.
The acknowledgment of the hundreds of hours of study, tutorials, work, play and worship invested into this day.

Karen Tame, '93 graduate

Graduation was a big day in my life. It signalled that I had achieved one of my goals - despite many thinking that this was impossible. It was a sad time seeing many friends moving on. It was great to see them setting out on their new paths in life.

avondale

it's your life!

LOOKING FOR TERTIARY EDUCATION?

Then you have some BIG decisions to make.

Make Avondale one of your options.

Consider our wide range of degrees, diplomas & certificates (all accredited, of course!). Consider our small classes (you actually get to meet the "PROF"). Consider our graduate employment record (employers like our graduates).

And by the way our social and spiritual life takes a lot of beating.

It's your future.

Avondale is your kind of life.

We think you'll find Avondale is

It is easy to look at a picture and not see what it really is; it is easy to look at Avondale and miss what makes it real.

"Go as far as you can see and when you get there you can see farther."
