DEDICATION

Master of Education

For your drive and persistence when facing challenges,
For your ability to inspire and enthuse the people around you,
For your commitment to learning and excellence,
For the way you make people feel at ease,
For your unique sense of humour,
For your dedication to each student's individual needs.

We dedicate the 1999 Jacaranda to you.

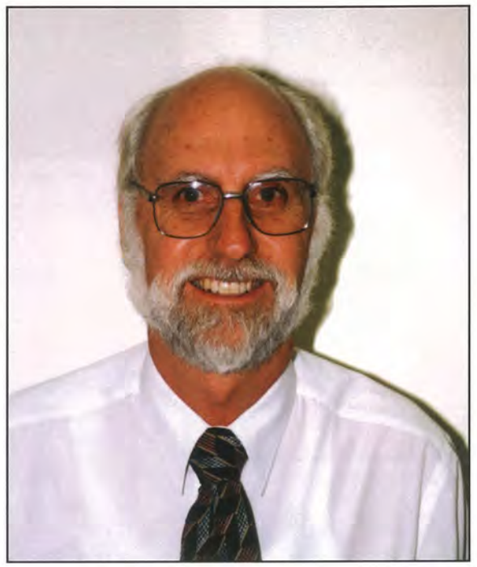
President's Address



Avondale College is a fascinating place. The students are (as we would hope) transient. One third are new each year. That in itself is an exciting challenge.

Avondale attracts students from a wide range of backgrounds. This year they come from twenty-two different countries. They are enrolled in thirty different academic programs: certificates, diplomas, degrees and a wide range of postgraduate courses. Some of our students arrive straight from school; others are making career changes. Some are single; others come with family responsibilities. Some have clear career and service goals; others aren't so sure. Some come with mature and secure personal faith; others are searching.

Our staff are (again as we would hope) more permanent. Nevertheless, they reflect differences born of personality and cultivated by the aptitudes and the insights that their academic disciplines or employment skills provide.

These differences contribute to the richness of the Avondale experience. And because the College is residential in nature, the interplay of these diversities extends well beyond the classroom. It spills over into all aspects of life. Our small size encourages a community spirit which, while not exactly family, has family characteristics.

This year I have been impressed with the care that both staff and students have shown for others. This has expressed itself in such ways as volunteer service both overseas and for children in rural NSW, fund-raising for Red Nose Day, and assisting charities with feeding the urban homeless. Campus Ministries has encouraged our students to show concern for one another's spiritual wellbeing. Our motto For a Greater Vision of World Needs is being lived.

But the most encouraging thing about College is that our students are viewing world needs clearly through the lens of the Gospel. And that is why we are here, and why we must continue to attract students from different places and different backgrounds. For we are all one in Christ Jesus.

Jacaranda is a student view of the Avondale College community. I trust you will enjoy it.

Geoffrey Madigan

Introduction

REASON LEARNING PLAY SPIRIT LAUGHTER MEMORIES

No man is an island. One look outside our own existence reminds us of that. As individuals, we are constantly affected by the triumphs and tribulations of other human beings whether we care to admit it or not. We cry with the hungry refugee. We contemplate the future as the millennium hype increases rapidly. We sing the National Anthem with pride whilst the swimmer takes first place. We as people like to think that we can live alone but reality tells us a different story.

Here at Avondale there are few moments we can call our own. Many of us try to create our own islands but then find ourselves swimming for civilisation a few hours later. And can we really blame ourselves? Most of our time is spent eating, studying, worshipping and socialising with others. Companionship becomes a basic need which helps us to survive our years at College.

Spending time alone does not mean we have failed as humans. Sometimes the best solace comes in the form of a quiet corner. However, where two or more are gathered there is a lifetime of experiences waiting to shape us and further develop our individuality.

Don't exclude yourself from...
precious moments
warm encounters beautiful attitudes majestic discoveries flowing intimacies
sensory development for these are the jewels placed in the crown of your destiny

Walter Rinder

REASON

God has a purpose for my life.

Wednesday worship

I sat down today and prayed to God to give me some direction in my life.
I told him what career I was best suited for and what my passions were.
I then explained that I was busy and needed to know His decision now.
I cried when no answer was forthcoming and got frustrated because things didn't turn out the way I thought best.
Finally, after a long lesson in patience and humility, I tried again. This time my prayer was different.
I knelt down today and I prayed to my God to take away all the barriers that stood between me and my relationship with Him.
I asked my friend Jesus to lead me where he could best use me and prayed for the patience to await his call.
I prayed for the strength to overcome my pride so that I could fully accept His decisions for me.
Over time my focus had been changed. Whereas before my prayer was selfish and complicated, now my prayer was this:
I pray that I am so filled with God's love that it bubbles over from within me and touches all those that I come into contact with.

Where to start?

Ever since there have been teachers and students, students have complained loudly about the hard work involved in writing essays. And teachers have complained vociferously (I've been wanting to use that word for a while!) about marking those essays. So, how do teachers cope with the unbearable heaviness of marking 20, 30, or 40 essays on the same topic?

I can only speak for myself, but I've found it pays to keep one's eyes open for the occasional brilliant faux pas. Here's a couple I've gleaned from student theology papers.

> "The Sabbath was made for the good of man; man was not mad for the Sabbath." (Is this a legalistic approach to Sabbath keeping?)
> "A worship service which relates to secular people firstly needs to do away with jargon. This includes Sevy jargon." (Sevy jargon?)
> (A comment on J. M. Stephenson, an Adventist pioneer.) "Stevenson returned to the First-Day Adventist church in 1855, after divorcing his wife and marring a younger woman." (Just the loss of the letter y and one cannot help but ask, "I wonder just what he did?")
> (A spell check would not have helped here) "Calvin supporters believe's in both views in away. And finally Seventh-day Advertise who have different views." (What?! But, maybe the church could use a name change if persecution ever hots up.)
> "Patmos, the author of the Book of Revelation, exhorts his Christian brethren and sisters to stand firm in the face of persecution."
> "The devil has been able to elude one-third of the angels." (I wonder where he hid himself? Have they caught up with him?)

Fun, isn't it? But, remember, I'm looking for more!

Over a thousand dollars was raised for the Southlakes Women's Refuge to assist abused women and their families. It was another reason for College to get dressed up whilst supporting a good cause.

Every camp has rules. The most important rule at Somersault Camp:

To have FUN!

We have FUN through playing games, having BBQ's at the beach, doing Arts & Craft, spending time with the leaders and camp friends, fishing, bonfires, archery, bushcraft, swimming, cooking, piggy-back and shoulder rides, swamp stomping and many more activities for six weekends a year.

Somersault Camps for the leaders though is more than just having fun. It is a time to build friendships that will impact the kids in the future, be young again, show the kids that someone cares for them and thinks they are important, late nights, early mornings, Milo, and making a difference in 18 lives.

FLY 'N LEARN

This year the Avondale/ADRA team spent three weeks in Cambodia. We helped out in various projects in two different regions. Our major project was concreting an ADRA building but we were also involved in planting and transplanting rice, constructing well rings, starting a nursery, teaching English classes, helping at a church working bee and taking church services and kids programs (with an interpreter!).

We were able to learn a lot about ADRA and how they are contributing in Cambodia. I strongly recommend an ADRA trip to anyone considering taking the plunge.

State League Squad

Renee

In the beginning, there was an idea brought forth to enter both a men's and women's basketball team into the NSW State Basketball League. Sponsored by Adlink (through Graeme Favell) and Bob Kalaf, the idea became a reality. Shawn Sykes was asked to coach, and Tharren Hutchinson was appointed as assistant coach. Managed by Mike Bartlett and Trafford Fischer, the teams prepared to enter their first season in the State League.

Earl

Greg

The League started in early May, with the season concluding in early September. During those months, both teams competed well and gave many teams a shock by how good the Christian basketball players were.

The women's team was very competitive the whole season, but unfortunately their record of 2 - 14 did not adequately show how well they actually performed. The men's team finished the season with an 11 - 5 record. This was enough to move into the finals, and place in the final 4.

Even though both teams did so well, the thing that will be remembered is that we were all good friends and played for Avondale College with a tremendous amount of pride.

Thank you to our sponsors, management, Westlakes Wildcats Association and all those who contributed to the team in some way.
