Jacaranda 1996

The team for 1996

Jacaranda 96 is our attempt to portray College life. We hope that in addition to being a pictorial album for our own reflection, Jacaranda will also be for you, a means of gaining an insight into life on campus; evoking memories and dreams. We have endeavoured to create an image of Avondale through the written word and through pictures; reproducing the visible, but also making visible.

We hope that you enjoy Jacaranda 96

Principal's Comments

Dr Geoffrey Madigan

Avondale College is in its one hundredth year. Formal classes commenced at Cooranbong on 28 April 1897. Now is an obvious time to look back and to look forward.

Avondale has seen many changes. Known initially as Avondale School for Christian Workers, it was renamed Australasian Missionary College in 1911 to reflect its missionary outlook. It became Avondale College in 1963 when the appearance of missionary on teachers' qualifications hindered their entry into a number of countries.

During this time the needs of the church changed along with the educational expectations of the communities in which the church operates. Avondale changed too, with the continuing aim of better serving the needs of the church.

What of the future? The youth of the church now enter a wider range of occupations than ever before. How might Avondale benefit such students? Because it is unlikely that the College will have the resources to parallel many of the courses available in the community, the answer may be found by offering subjects that focus on the way belief impinges on particular occupations.

Current courses may require modification to prepare our graduates for the world of tomorrow. For example, teaching graduates will need to be able to make Seventh-day Adventist belief attractive to their students in an increasingly secular world. Business graduates continue to recognise that Christian values must be woven through every aspect of business life.

Community trends are for education to be delivered to where students are. Employment can be continued, bringing obvious financial advantages and minimising disruption to family life. Modern technology, however, has the potential to isolate and to dehumanise. Values and beliefs are "caught not taught". The challenge is to take advantage of the benefits of communications technology while preserving personal interaction and affirming faith.

In the face of change there remain constants: our need for God and the attributes of decent human beings are but two of these. The future of Avondale will be exciting as we face tomorrow confident in the leading of our Lord and Saviour.

Well, Mal, it is indeed a pleasure to pen these words. The Education Department - in fact the whole College - has been enriched by your presence. You have brought to your work an array of talents, a precise scholarship and a youthful vigour. But beyond this, your obvious cheerfulness and your sense of fun have made you approachable and endeared you to both your students and colleagues. This honour is richly deserved.

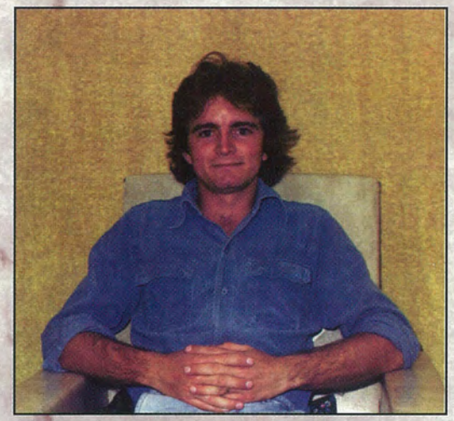
- Cedric Greive

Some memorable occasions at school:

Demonstrated the use of a powder fire-extinguisher in class, thus coating the room and its occupants in fine white powder.

Used a wrapped, frozen biological specimen (to wit one large green snake) as a freezer bag to treat a student injury.

Used unusual animals in science classes, including road-kill as dissection specimens.



Interests:

Paddling kayaks with friends - including a pet sea snake.

Running unreliable ex-military four wheel drives.

Wood-turning and photography.

Sac 96

The year started off with Orientation - round one and two. The scavenger hunt followed: 110 people ventured out to run rampant through the streets of The Entrance Talent Night was a highlight. SAC to the Future wasn't meant to be, but roller skating was a blast. Belated Valentine's Day was celebrated in style, and the Sydney Harbour Cruise - a great success. The final Pool Party - an event to be remembered! During the year many participated in day events. People ran from bed to class in their pyjamas, they wore socks in a variety of ways and improved their appearances with masks. The Caf was decked out in toilet paper for Black and White day, and big boys rode water ponies for the Melbourne Cup. Some interesting Hats appeared on Hat Day.

Licking the Wounds

Remember the treats? Eggs at Easter, Kit-Kats before exams and Lifesavers because we figured you needed them. Oh yeah... and SAC points awarded for everything! SAC 1996 - we had a GOOD time. It seemed like a LONG time, but it was worth it and we had fun! Thank you to everyone who supported us this year! We'll cherish the memories.

Do not cry for the dead, while there's hope for the living.
Do not mourn the past, while the present exists.

While many have lived, there are many still living.
Though many have died, there are many still dying.

That which has passed is beyond your control,
But that which is, is yours.

Therefore, live knowing you have life, and because you live, you may partake in the lives of others.

Let the dead mourn each other.
Let the living place hope in each other.
There is hope for the living (yours).

The Spiritual atmosphere at the SAH: with two classes out of five in a work block, it is difficult to meet everyone's spiritual needs. It is more a matter of creating an environment for people to develop their own spirituality, to allow every student know they are accepted and cared for, and that God loves THEM.
My primary aim as Campus Ministries leader for the Wahroonga campus is make sure every student has been touched spiritually in some way, for to be touched spiritually is a powerful thing.

Tonga Fly & Build

The Fly & Build this year was absolutely awesome. We renovated a four classroom primary school in Tonga. The whole team had heaps of fun. Unfortunately all good things must come to an end. If you ever get the chance to do something like this, don't hesitate!! Go, you'll love it.

This program is all about early mor nings, cold, wet hands, dirt under the finger nails, and an aching back. It is also about having fun working together with other students, staff, and members of the community, while doing something for those in gr eater need.

The Port Arthur Massacre

We see pain and heartache so often that our senses are dulled; we look away and continue to live in our cosy existence. This year we all did stop- at least once - to take in the horror of Port Arthur. Each of us felt a deep blow as we saw the innocence of human life betrayed by another human. Right at the heart of a peaceful State in our homeland. In our shock and pain it is a comfort to know that here at Avondale we are learning to strive for peace.

1996 Thoughts Of...

College conjures up two words: commitment and colour.
Commitment. When a lecturer goes that extra mile to help you understand. When a student goes that extra mile by starting an assignment the night before it is due. When God goes that extra mile to pull you through an exam you should have failed. Commitment is making it to a shift at 7.00 am when you were still awake eating pizza with friends only four hours before. It is turning up to class and listening. It is being there, it is doing the things you set out to do. Commitment is the "I'm there for you" kind of stuff. College is commitment.
If that was all College was would we be committed? I think not. College is more than just commitment. College is colour. Buildings show colour. So do gardens and sunsets. But these aren't the colours of College that most of us will remember. It is people and experiences that give College its colour. Colour is the appreciative smile on a patient's face, the sparkle of mischief in your friend's eye, all-night exam stress coupled with coffee, practising injections on your classmates, and quiet chats in rooms. Colour is class retreats, sunbaking on the Res roof, it is laughter and tears. Colour is experience, and experience is what colours us and makes us who we are. Whether it be at Cooranbong or Wahroonga, College is colour.
Commitment and colour. Experience at College makes the commitment worthwhile.

1996 Thoughts Of...

In life, all things change. People change, situations change, life in general changes. Without change nothing progresses - stagnation results. Since my first year in 1993 I have watched Avondale and its people change. The friends I had then are not all the same friends I have now. In 1996 my perception of how things have changed is clearer than ever before.

Having been at College for four years I have observed students and staff moving into new stages in their lives. In particular, old friends have left, creating a void that can never be filled at Avondale again. Change, however, is a fact of life. It is a part of the cycle that we all experience in life. 1996 is a part of that cycle of change.

- Ben Cole, Education student.

The Reborn Pool - In It's Glory

Avondale College invests substantial amounts in a development program. Landscaping has changed the face of Andre and Bethel Hall. The swimming pool has also been enhanced. These provide a fresh appeal to the College landscape, which will be further improved with the renovation of the Chapel and subsequent completion of paving from Andre to the Library carpark.

Go placidly amid the noise and the haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible, without surrender, be on good terms with all persons.
Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even to the dull and ignorant;
they too have their story.

Avoid loud and agressive persons;
they are vexations to the spirit. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain and bitter, for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself.

Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans. Keep interested in your own career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs, for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind yoou to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals, and everywhere life is full of heroism.

Be yourself. Especially do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love; for in the face of all aridity and disenchantment,
it is as perennial as the grass.

Take kindly the counsel of the years,
gracefully surrendering the things of youth.
Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with dark imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness.

Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. You are a child of the universe no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should.

Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive Him to be. And whatever your labours and aspirations, in the noisy confucion of life, keep peace with your soul.

With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world.
Be careful. Strive to be happy.
