PREFACE

One picture is worth a thousand words, according to an old Chinese proverb. The pictures in this 1990 Jacaranda portraying the college life equal volumes of the printed page. Vividly and concisely they recapture the people and the events, which made this year so enjoyable and memorable.

Pictures, like words, are intended to communicate. As the artist paints a message in mind, so the photographer uses the camera to portray reality, to "tell it the way it is". Those who have compiled this volume hope that it accurately reflects the many facets of life at Avondale - in study, worship, and recreation. Jacaranda is a tribute to their skill and determination to produce a true and interesting record of college life.

Pictures evoke memories and dreams. For those who were part of the 1990 Avondale story, may you find cherished memories as you turn these pages. And for those who have not yet tasted life at Avondale, may you find something that will encourage you to try for yourself the "Avondale Experience".

I hope all will enjoy the 1990 Jacaranda.

EDITORIAL

Pictures of Avondale is our attempt to portray many facets of life at college. We wish that in addition to being a glorified photo album for our own reflection as students, Jacaranda will also be for you, a means of gaining insight into life on campus. With this in mind we have endeavoured to create pictures through the written word as well as visually, reproducing the visible, but also making visible.

We hope you enjoy our presentation.

DEDICATION

Who …

Probably comes into contact with more students than anyone else here?

Works quietly and tirelessly for the good of the college and its students?

Is one of those behind-the-scenes persons to ensure registration runs smoothly, examinations happen, and Graduation takes place?

Guides those students 'lost' in the academic maze that college can become?

And who IS one of the FEW women in administration at Avondale?

DOT COTTIER - a genuine person and above all a Christian.

For your constant work,
quiet achievements,
and helping hand,
we dedicate Jacaranda
1990 to you.

DISTINCTIVELY ADVENTIST

We come to Avondale for an Adventist education. While here, certain things are expected of us. We attend compulsory worships, we take compulsory house requirements, we don't study on Saturdays, we dance only while seated, and our library is possibly the only one in Australia with a rack full of brown books by Ellen G. White. Is this what gives Avondale its unique position in society? It certainly does make us distinctive.

Some would judge Avondale's "coefficient of Adventism" in terms of how much traditional Adventist lifestyle students are required to adopt while here. It seems that if the external actions are OK, then the right internal attitudes will follow.

But true Adventism is more than just typical Adventism. An Adventist lifestyle is the result of personal faith, it will never be the cause.

True Adventism is in having an internalized basis for faith. It is in making the Christian view of reality personal and relevant. It is in developing a relationship with Christ that extends into every facet of life, including the intellectual and the social.

So where do you look for true Christianity? You won't find it in the worship points system, or in Campus Guidelines, and you may not see it on the basketball court. But it's here, in the lives of support staff, lecturers, students and administrators alike. And if you let it, some may even rub off.

TONY DYSON

What a man believes may be ascertained, not from his creed, but from the assumptions on which he habitually acts.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW

When essays are due and exams loom, worship is often seen as an interruption in a busy schedule. Yet deep down Avondalians have a yearning to touch the mind of their creator, and most would admit to having sensed Him in a quiet and needy moment.

Campus Ministries is a euphemism for a collection of programs: Combined Worships, Vespers, Opening and Closing Sabbaths,Off-Campus Ministries, Outreach ventures, Student Missionary Awareness. It has been our job this year to keep those programs running, to keep the cogs turning and the clock ticking over.

However, programs must have a focus, and that focus is people. As you look through the pictures of this year, see the people with hopes, dreams, needs, fears, frustrations, goals, successes - people we have sought to touch in ministry, so that they can touch others, and ultimately touch Jesus Christ.

QUALITIES OF EDUCATION

Education is more than the growth which occurs in lecture theatres and classrooms, labs and library personal interchange and private study.

It involves challenge, even pain
discarding cherished ideas incorporating new data testing fresh hypotheses overcoming barriers real and imagined.

Often it is hard work.
Now and again it is a drudgery.
A chrysalis is never set free without struggle.
It achieves a new form through gifts and effort.

Graduates are at their best when softened by some tears,
tempered by much toil
honed by exchange with many minds polished by Christian values

Then they have begun to experience EDUCATION which enriches Time
and endures into Eternity

ARTHUR PATRICK

Learning to learn is to know how to navigate in a forest of facts, ideas, and theories, a proliferation of constantly changing items of knowledge…to know what to ignore, but at the same time not rejecting innovation and research.

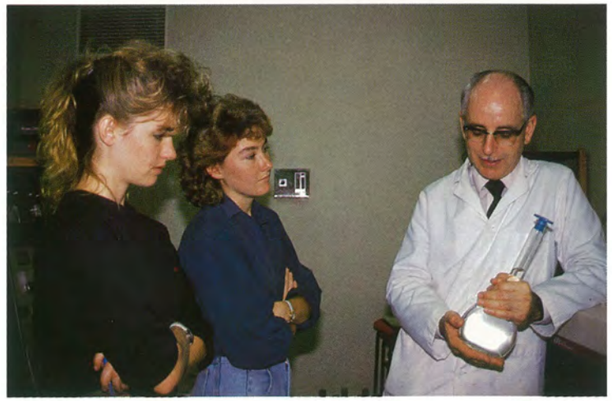

RAYMOND QUENEAU

COSMOS/ADRA FIJI PROJECT

Fiji … tropical paradise of coconut palms and coral reefs. But even in paradise buildings deteriorate. Naqia… "our" village out in the bush and a world away from the tourist resorts. Naqia school … condemned and threatened by closure. COSMOS…a group of seven students and a lecturer. We worked with the local villagers and ADRA's support to repair the school. A first for Avondale. We went to experience living in a less affluent culture…we received far more than we gave. Thank you to our friends in Naqia…part of us remains in Fiji.

S.M. SERVICE

The Student Missionary Program offers young, eager students the opportunity to volunteer their talents for one year of service.

This year there are a number of Student Missionaries around the globe:

Korea: Sharyn Bazley, Sue Haslam

Solomon Islands: Owen Ellis, Andrew Hyland

One year of travel, challenges, cultural experiences, fun and spiritual revival. Being an SM will change your life. I recommend that you accept the challenge of helping others.

NURSING

Nursing goes beyond counting drip rates - it is extending oneself to say 'you can count on me' is not only giving out tablets and injections - it entrusts care and concern.

reaches past the mere recognition of pain and distress - it understands the hurt.

encompasses all that a person is - it shares in their experience and life.

Avondale's nursing students have the opportunity to develop these essential skills during their course. College welcomes nursing students for their first semester, and is further graced with their presence one day per week in their third and fifth semesters. Two and a half years of their course is spent at the Sydney Adventist Hospital, ensuring an effective balance between academic and clinical experiences. The course has a strong commitment to maintain the high standards of Christian and professional practice.

GWEN WILKINSON

Healing of any sort is a kind of creative or rather regenerating work, a direct expression and furtherance of God's will. It means bringing life back to what it ought to be, mending that which has broken down, healing our deep mental and spiritual wounds by the action of Christ's charity, giving new strength to the weak, new purity to the tainted."

EVELYN UNDERHILL

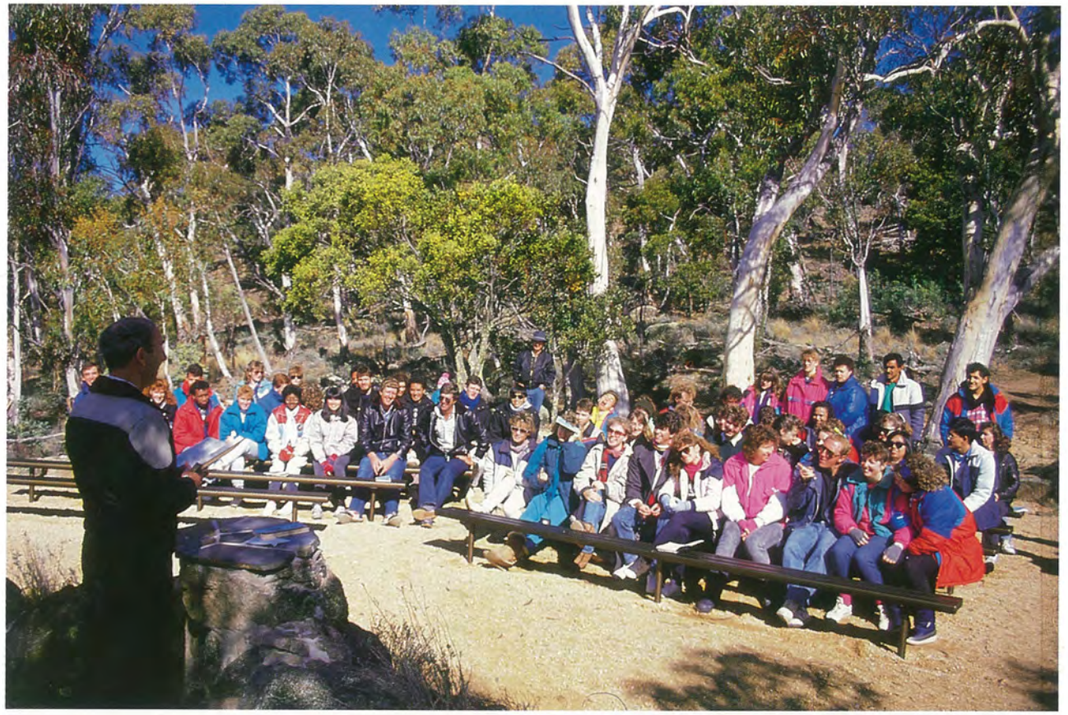

EXPRESSION

Groups of smartly-dressed students attending symphony concerts at the Sydney Opera House…Wednesday morning chapels exposing virtuosic and instumental mime artists, colourful paintings and ceramics from the art department, or the occasional excellent public speaker…a drama evening with creative English students performing their own plays…dedicated musicians practising for long lonely hours to perfect technique and interpretation…

…electric guitars distorting through punch drunk speakers…recognizable cartoon figures doodled upon opened folders inspired by the less riveting of lecturers…'dark horse' theology students unashamedly displaying their individualistic vocal and creative movement "skills" before open-mouthed talent night audiences…eye catching graffiti boards along Andre's halls - the place where expressions can be expressed for expression's sake…

So what is the present 'state of the art(s)' at Avondale? The arts at Avondale are stronger in some specialities than others. There are some superbly gifted staff and students who are contributing and seeking to increase aesthetic appreciation among the College population in general, yet much remains to be done. A certain narrow-mindedness and prejudice exists towards some forms of artistic expression and is not easily overcome.

Wholistic education involves learning not only how to think but how to feel, and not only how to appreciate but also how to express creatively and spiritually. Avondale could come closer to this ideal with increased exposure and a more open attitude to the huge variety of art forms: from the great artists of old, their works and philosophies right through to jazz, top forty or the latest theatre production. When standing before the artistic smorgasbord, why be limited to just one platter? Christians need to learn how to critically assess the art forms and choose all those aspects that enrich and ennoble.

Literature is about man - his conflicts and experiences
Art is life intensified
Music is the soul made audible
To be in touch with the arts is to be in touch with life.

Leaving the winter cold of Australia to enjoy the North American summer was eagerly anticipated by the Avondale Singers. Planning for the 1990 tour went back eighteen months, and after much hard work the forty five member ensemble flew out to Los Angeles on June 27, not to return until July 18.

The choir had to contend with such hardships as shopping along Fifth Avenue, New York City (Macys, Bloomingdales), the Bohemian and trendy Greenwich Village, viewing New York by night from the top of the Empire State building, and by day from the Statten Island ferry as well as the spectacular Niagara Falls from the Canadian side.

Hotel accommodation fluctuated in standard from one near Harlem (of which the floors sloped in every direction, and one had to use the sheets as towels), to the luxury we found in Indianapolis.

Billeting was an enlightening experience, not only for we Aussies but our American friends, who, after doing the taste test, were astonished that people actually ate Vegemite.

American Independence Day (July 4) was something special for us, as we listened to the Boston Pops Orchestra with 200,000 others in an open-air celebration.

The months of hard work paid off when we were greeted with standing ovations at eight of the ten concerts. Finally our tour concluded with singing at the General Conference Session at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis, where not only 60,000 people could attend the concert, but thousands elsewhere could see it as it was beamed live via satellite across North America and Canada.

It was a magnificent effort from Alan Thrift, conducting the Avondale Singers in what is his last and most triumphant choir tour. It will be a long time before Avondale will hear such choral excellence again.

BEING AND DOING

IMAGES OF NATURE

As in any art, if one becomes too absorbed in the immediate work there is a danger in losing perspective on life outside of that work.

One's perspective, especially at a place like Avondale, all too often seems to distort and crumble. If a person is willing to occasionally put aside the theories, debates, calculations and arguments and take time to immerse themselves in nature, the benefits can be life-changing. In taking time to simply "be" in this environment, one's wounded perspective is given an opportunity to heal.

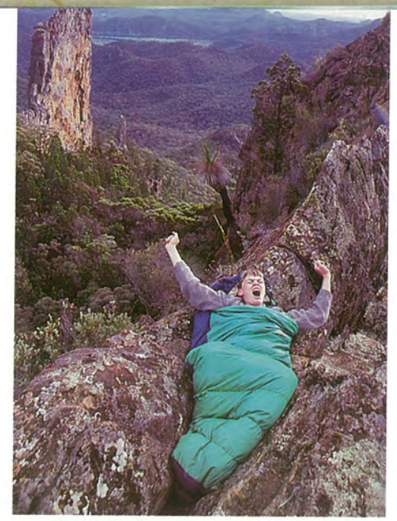

The images of nature

- the waddle of a wandering wombat
- powdered sunbeams sifting through silky gums
- cotton spider webs flapping gently on the breeze
- turtles treading water in the shallows of liquid sunlight
- the soft hue of twilight following an explosive sunset
- the thumping of waves on rocky outlets
- sheer gorge walls slicing the heavens
- icy waters laughing down rock faces
- splicing fingers of lightning taunting the tops of ranges
- the bored indifference of a bovine's stare
- the night sky peppered with seasoning stars
- warm sunshine walking with friends

These images, a mere keyhole view of the total, serve to reshape the distorted perspective. This repairing process, if complemented by a positive attitude and the help of genuine friends, caring family members and a loving GOD, will develop within a person not only a greater and healthier perspective but also the potential for a greater and healthier vision.

They are all just crazy to gain knowledge and wisdom they are from their late teens to their mid-fifties they are big and scrawny dwarfish and colossal and just about everything in between some like what they are some don't in other words you can get all sorts of people at this place. They are great guys hot girls outsiders insiders extroverts introverts intellectual giants hopeless academics true friends true wimps honest Christians honest rascals beautiful inside beautiful outside both neither nor lazy diligent neat catastrophic cataclysmic visionary depressive manic great sportsmen selfish braggarts excellent musical talents useless stage squatters spiritual leaders shepherds with either a wolf's heart or an ants mind accomplished administrators accomplished antagonists very economical people very big wasters greenies careless conservatives dangerous liberals concerned students fair dinkum aussies foreign intruders…mostly kiwis…people from all ways of life. They usually have no money no time…except for basketball opposite sex rugby…a hard time heaps of assignments always something or someone to complain about a great time a boyfriend a girlfriend someone to iron their washing late nights too much study smart street machines or then the odd pushbike muscles nice curves some gossip to talk about answers to prayer if they care to talk with God a week's supply of junk food skin problems reason for hope. AVONDALE COLLEGE FOUNDATION

A safe investment…
Secured for eternity!

Looking for a safe investment? An investment that will remain profitable for eternity? Then the MILLION DOLLAR BURSARY CHALLENGE is for you.

Many capable and valuable students have been lost to Avondale College and to our denominational work due to their financial situation. Through the MILLION DOLLAR BURSARY CHALLENGE the AVONDALE COLLEGE FOUNDATION has invested more than $200 000 in the youth of our church, an investment that will continue to pay dividends forever.

Since its inception the AVONDALE COLLEGE FOUNDATION has been committed to the future of Avondale College and to excellence in Christian education. Why don't you join in its success by investing in the youth of our Division by making a contribution to the MILLION DOLLAR BURSARY CHALLENGE.

In Memory...

Dr. Kevin Howse,
While his presence touched our lives for only a short period, he is remembered by many for his years of service.

Welcome...

Dr. Geoffery Madigan , our new Principal.

Farewell...

Dr. Bryan Ball, we wish you success as you take up your new appointment.

In Appreciation

The name "Thrifty" seems to be synonymous with service.

In addition to his role as veteran lecturer and musician, Thrifty is highly regarded for his talent in the area of choral directing. For this we admire him.

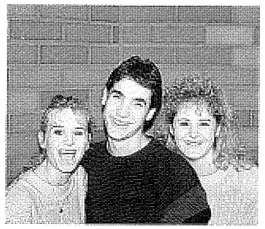

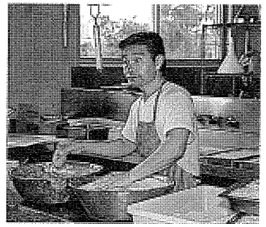

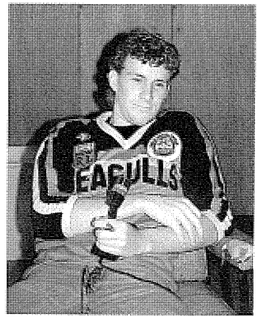

He is noted by the general college population for his relaxed, though rather verbose analytical descriptions of the once weekly cultural experience intended to elevate the masses to the realms of excellence. For this we forgive him.

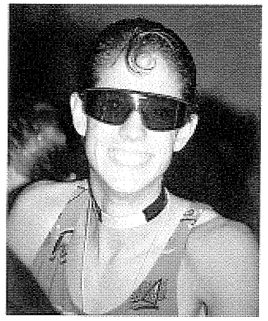

Record has it that this nonchalant almost penguin like character has coloured college with his playful charm for thirty years. For this we have to like him.

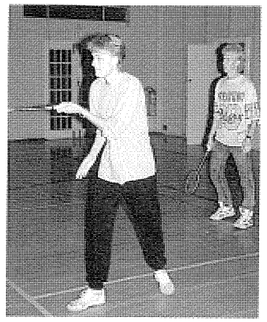

In addition to Thrifty, Avondale has been privileged to have his wife, Yvonne, who has dedicated a large part of her life to music on campus in teaching both piano and voice..

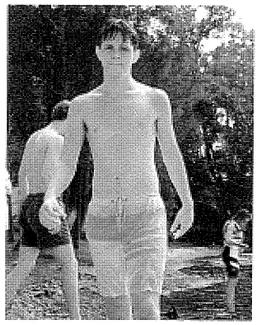

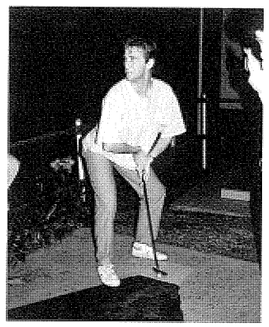

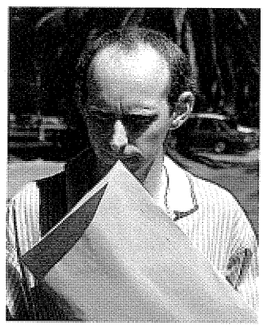

Alan and Yvonne Thrift, we greatly appreciate the time you have given us, both as lecturers and friends, and we wish you all the best in years to come.

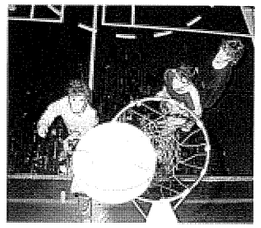

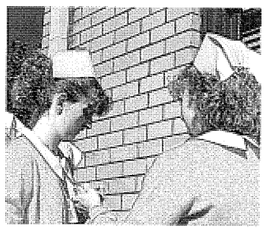

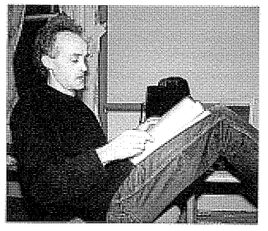

AVONDALE

Sanitarium is one of Australia's leading food manufacturers – producing a number of the nation's top selling brands.

But to stay on top we must plan for the future. And we invite you to be part of that future.

To stay on top, Sanitarium needs more top people.

We need people who have idealism and who are interested in dedicating themselves to a cause.

Other work opportunities may appear to give more material gain. But appearances can be deceptive. Who can match the satisfaction of a life given in service to the greatest co-operative organisation this world has to offer – the Seventh-day Adventist Church?

To those who see value in pursuing a commercial or professional career in the Master's service.

For more information about Sanitarium's educational assistance programmes and the many career opportunities available write to: The Human Resources Manager, Sanitarium Health Food Company, 140 Fox Valley Road, Wahroonga, NSW 2076, Australia.

THEY CHOSE DENOMINATIONAL SERVICE

Gary Faull graduated from the Bachelor of Business Course in 1989. He is now Assistant Accountant for Retirement & ACA Health Benefits Funds, and studying to be a Certified Practicing Accountant. Gary says...

"I consider the mission of the Church to be threefold:

1 To support and nurture church members.
2 To take the gospel to all the world.
3 To provide various christian services to the community.

Identifying with these objectives makes Church work a satisfying and rewarding experience for me. I find my work exciting because it continually challenges me with new situations. It provides a pleasant environment for living and working, and focuses on people. The church needs people who have practical sense, creativity and skill. It needs you."

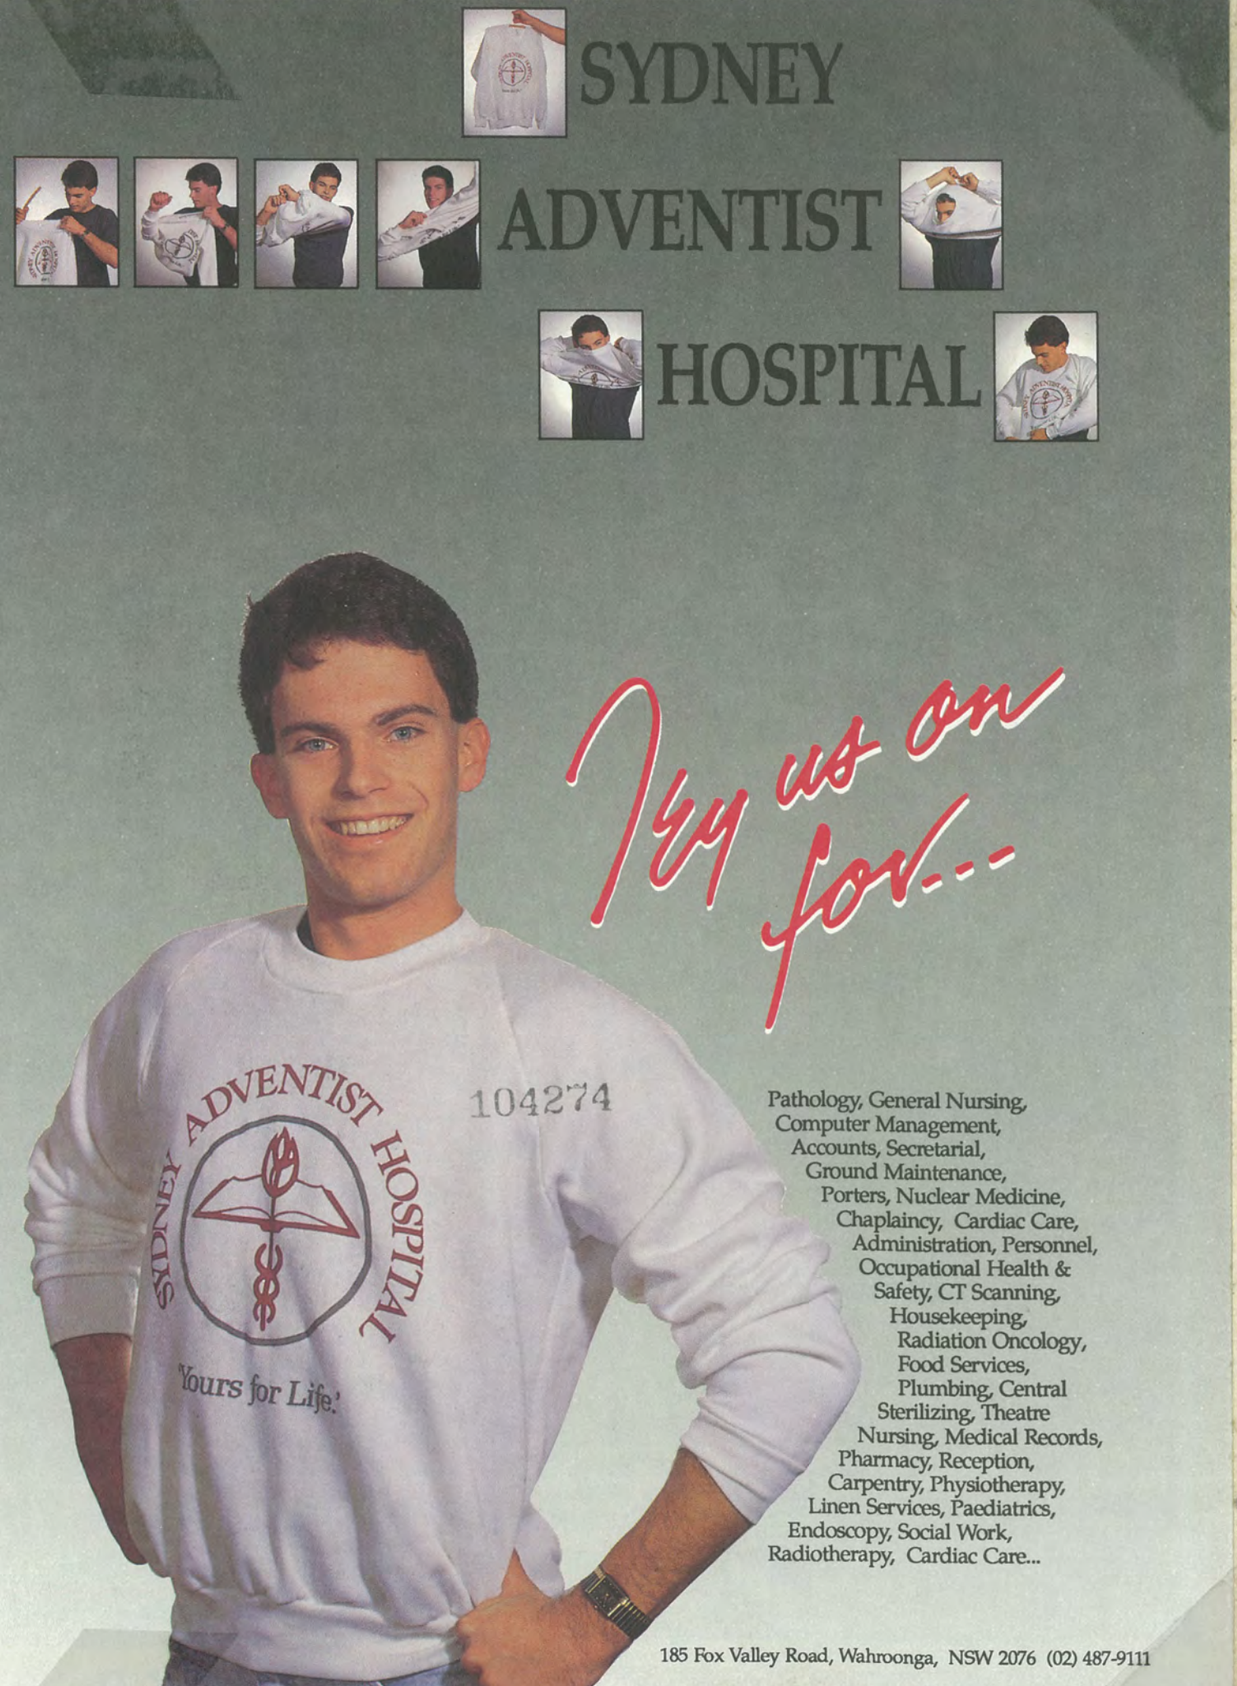

Michelle Scotton graduated from the Secretarial course in 1989, and she is now working with the Adventist Development and Relief Agency as a Project Secretary. Michelle says...

"Working for the Church does not mean that I am a better Christian or that my work is more important than those who are not Church employees. However, I believe we each should be ready to give God a chance if we hear His call to work for the Church. Working for ADRA is not just another job for me, because I know that this is where God wants me to be. I love my Lord and I love my work. Where is God calling you?"
