THE PRESIDENT

Ray Roennfeldt

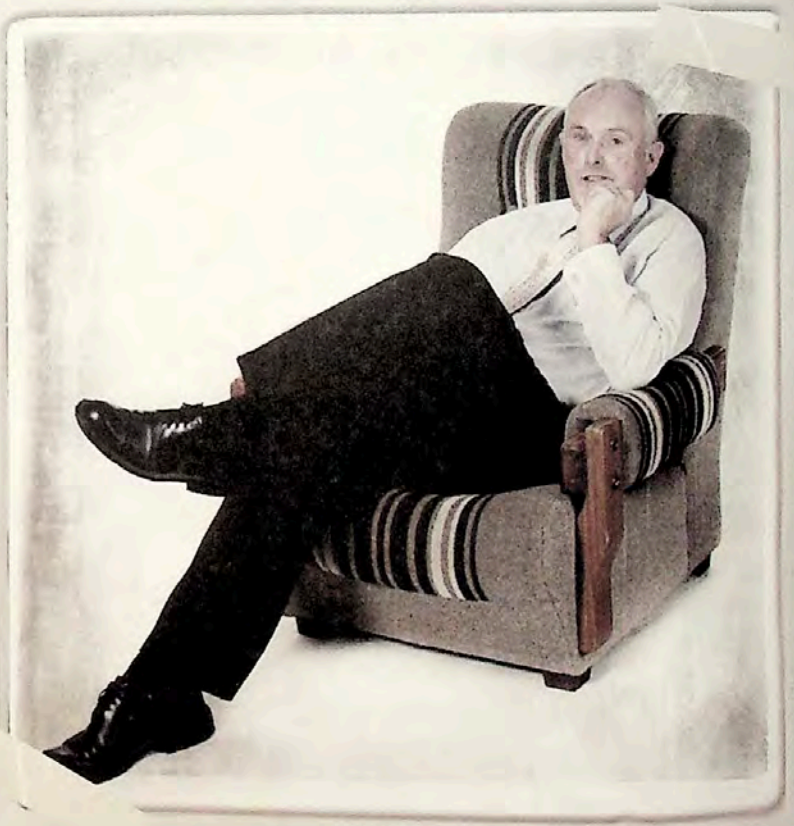

This has been a big year for Avondale. The Australian Universities Quality Agency published a positive audit which commended us on the "Avondale experience," something students and staff see as the College's unique contribution to their lives. Then, first semester saw Avondale's enrolment reach a new record. During second semester, we celebrated the appointment of Avondale's first three associate professors—Kevin de Berg, Robert McIver, and Daniel Reynaud. Also, our future looks bright with The Good Universities Guide 2010 giving Avondale seven 5-star ratings.

However, all of the commendations, enrolment increases, academic research and recognition, and ratings are nothing unless Avondale has succeeded in reaching the goals which lay behind its foundation in 1897. That goal was to provide a balanced, practical, and holistic education that would shape people for life now and forever.

So, what has been your experience at Avondale in 2009? Did you grow in your abilities to relate to each other? Did you expand your mind with both information and wisdom? Did you develop practical skills that you can use in the workplace and in meeting the needs of the world? Did you grow in your relationship with God and contribute to the spiritual life of the Avondale community? Did you learn more about yourself and enhance your gifts?

I hope that Avondale has contributed to what will be a lifetime of learning for you. When you look back at 2009 and the memories captured in this Jacaranda, you will remember the fun and friendships, the study and sloth. But most of all, remember the One who made us as individuals and designed us for relationships with Himself, others, and the world we live in.

If you do that, I do not need to wish you a fulfilling life!

THE EDITOR

Kim Brown

I am a self-proclaimed idealist. I like to think that a better world is possible. I believe it. I have to. I like to think that if we all pitched in; gave a little more, took a lot less; we would see it happen, in small yet incredible ways, right before our eyes.

The making of this Jacaranda has generated a lot of thought about what a better world looks like and what we're actually doing to get it that way. I like that. I've listened to people tirade about environmental responsibility, anguish over the lack of clean food and water worldwide, and brainstorm ways to support Morisset youth. I have been humbled, blessed, and inspired by a number of you who have so willingly and passionately shared your vision for a better world.

Isn't that essentially what we're at College for? We're busy getting certificates, diplomas, degrees, masters, and doctorates that will enable us to impact the greater world somehow. We're busy making friends and memories that will shape us, our world view, and our future. That's what the Avondale experience is all about: shaping ourselves, our futures, and our communities so that they reflect the Kingdom of God here on earth.

So as Bono put it to the University of Pennsylvania, I put it to you: "What's the big idea? What's your big idea [Avondale]? What are you willing to spend your moral capital, your intellectual capital, your cash, your sweat equity in pursuing inside and outside the walls of [Avondale College]?" I'm asking you, as an editor, friend, colleague, fellow citizen of earth—to dream big. Take advantage of your youth, idealism, courage, resources, energy, wisdom, abilities, personality, and influence to make our world a better place.

JAC TEAM

Yep, that's us. We're the group of people whose sleepless nights have brought you the book you now hold in your hand. We hope you like it but, most of all we hope it inspires you to do something to create a better world as you continue your Avondale experience or as you head off into the real world after graduation.

DEDICATED TO

Brad Watson

When speaking of a better world, the name of Brad Watson comes to mind. Brad is not only interested in humanitarianism, but is passionately committed to empowering, creating, and maintaining a world of safety, health, unity, equality, and sustainability.

Brad has a passion for people, and he's spent his life proving that over and over. Brad has volunteered for ADRA and Asian Aid. He's spent time teaching in Papua New Guinea, Perth and Gosford. He's run boys' adventure-based mentoring programs, created children's picture books (the newest of which is in Lao and about basic sanitation), and written young adult fiction.

As an IDS and Geography lecturer at Avondale College Brad has been a part of COSMOS, initiated an environmental committee for the college, and has empowered countless students to get involved in making a better world.

"[Brad] saw something in me that I didn't; as cheesy as that sounds, it's true. When I first came to Avondale I didn't have any direction for my future, I wasn't sure what I was capable of, but Brad really changed that. He always found time when I needed advice or direction in any area of my course, classes, activities, or trips. He has also provided me with countless opportunities to expand and develop what he saw in me, including the Refugee Camp and One Mission." —Jess Parsons

"He empowers students to get involved in making a difference through organising events like Make Poverty History Week. I admire his 'go get it' attitude and that he doesn't accept excuses that something's too hard or unobtainable. His passion for less fortunate people was made evident when we were in Cambodia. We visited a young lady and her children who were living at a tip. Brad provided a small loan for her to start her own business so that she can support her family. I admire him because I know that he really cares about making a difference in the world, and he sees every effort, no matter how small, as valuable." —Krystle Praestiin

By all accounts Brad, you are an inspiration. You have shown us what it means to live a life dedicated to a better world, and for that we dedicate this to you.

On behalf of Avondale College and the world at large,

Thank you.

IN MEMORY OF

Charles Pointon

Charles Pointon was one of the most amazing people that you could ever meet. As the oldest student in Australia, he was a living icon who added colour and vitality to the College campus. The world is a better place because of him and his humble and dedicated way of serving others. His loyal dedication to COSMOS made a huge difference over the years, both to the underprivileged children in developing countries and by his example, to generations of College students who have observed his passion and quiet determination to make a difference wherever he was.

You would always know where to find Charles at lunchtime because he was in his place in the cafeteria with his donation tins raising money for the orphanages and schools of India through COSMOS.

At his funeral, students placed Jacaranda flowers on his grave because its flower is the symbol of College life as well as the name of the yearbook. This book, which tells how God is revealed in everyday lives of students, was another of Charles' passions. You could not have a conversation with Charles without soon discovering He was proud to speak about what his God mean to him and how he wanted to serve Him.

Thank you Charles for touching our lives, and the lives of others in such a selfless way. You were a living example of what God can do with someone who has a passion for making a better world.

Wayne French.

"I slept and I dreamed that life is joy, I woke and saw that life is all service. I served and saw that service is joy." - Mother Theresa.

Being at Avondale, I have seen amongst students & staff, a passion for service that makes a difference in other peoples' lives.
I hope that my time with One Mission has helped develop this in students by providing opportunities overseas. I have seen students go off to India, Cambodia, to the islands, and to Asia. All have returned with smiles on their faces - no matter how rough their trip was.
Those of us, who go on trips - overseas or locally - give what we have. Time & Love. Only the best. Whatever we do there, whether it be large or small, I know that we will/ or have touched other peoples' lives - and this makes our Jesus smile.

Building the Refugee Camp (with the help of some friends,) was to raise awareness of social injustice at Avondale and in our community. It really was luxury compared to the real thing, but if it can help shift the focus off 'self' onto 'others' for a weekend, we've accomplished something!!

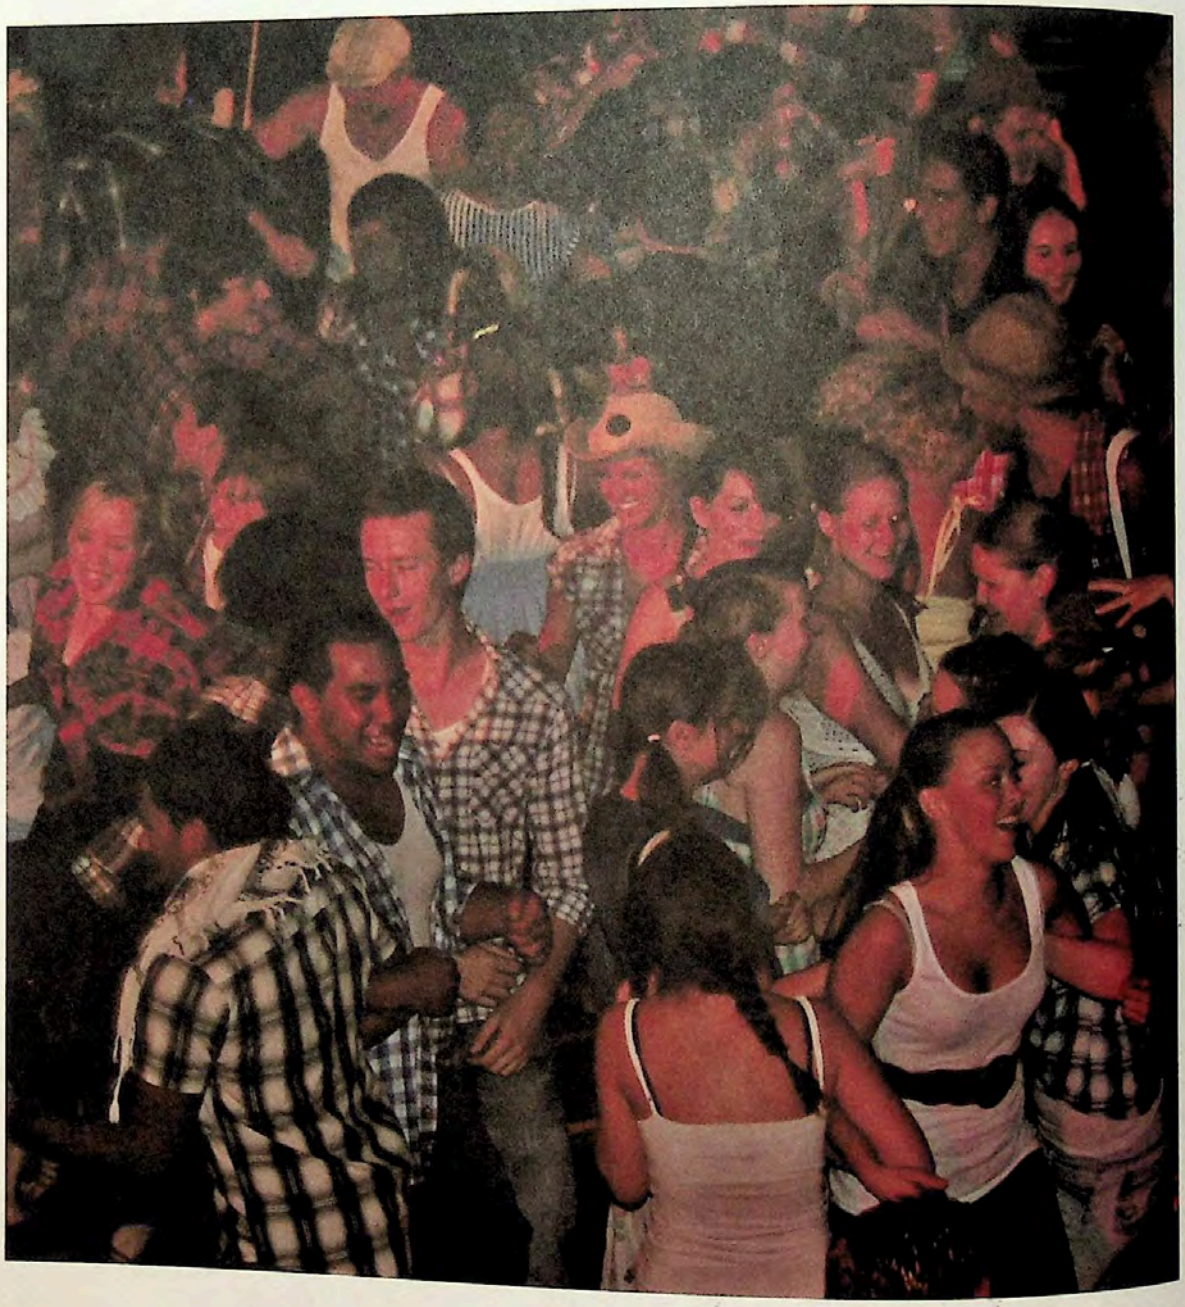

I don't know how much of a difference I alone can make in this world, but Avondale has shown me the joy of serving, & given me a glimpse of God's heart for His people.
I'm in Rwanda now, doing two subjects towards my IDS degree. I never saw myself celebrating my birthday with sex workers & all their babies but I did, and I liked it. It is here, in Rwanda, that I have learned that just a smile, a hug, & remembering their name, can change someone's life. Some people in this world actually miss out on love.
So my fellow student friends (and staff), I encourage you to love ... always, for it is the essence of God Himself.

Love you xox

FESTIVAL OF FAITH

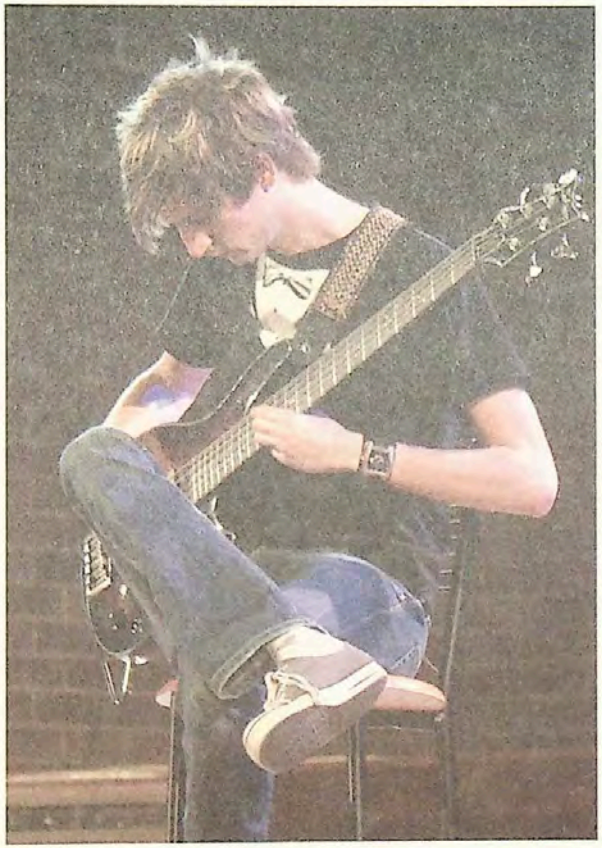

The student team SAM put together a fantastic week of worship with Dick Bueiksen themed "Court in His Presence."

OUTREACH CONCERT

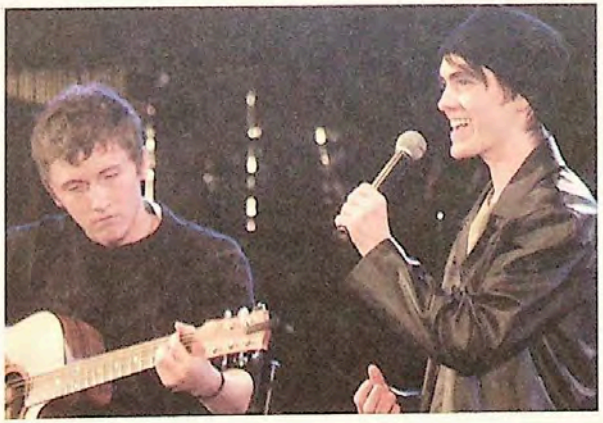

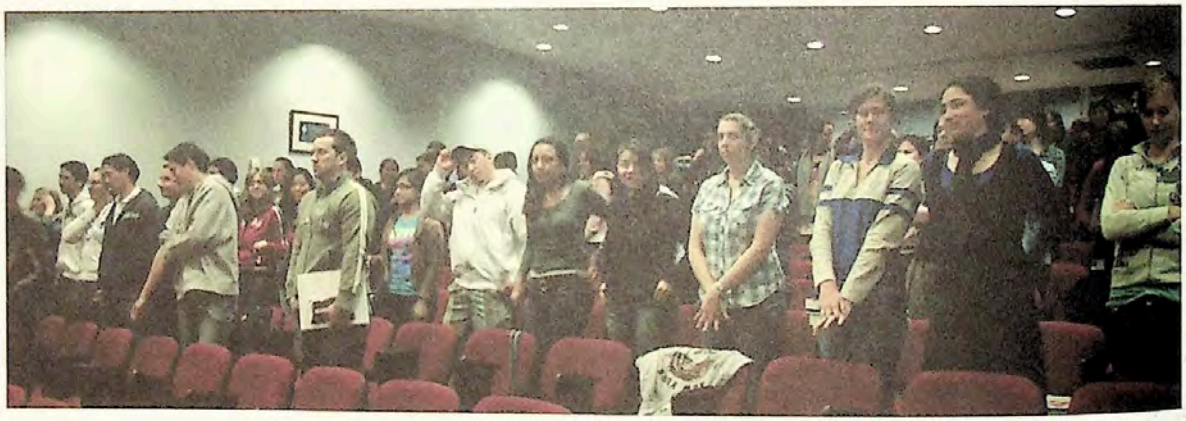

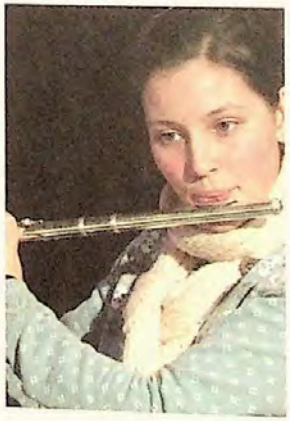

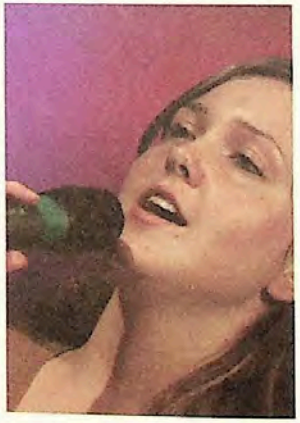

FESTIVAL OF FAITH

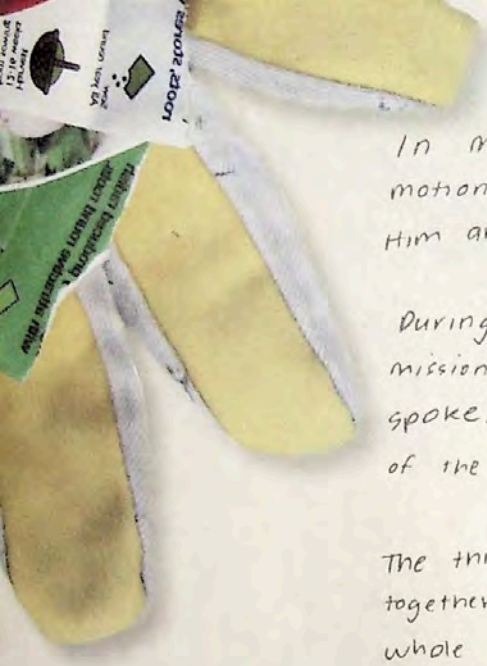

The nurses on the Sydney campus enjoyed spiritual revival during their festival of faith.

In my first year of college I remember feeling like I was going through the motions of christianity without really experiencing a deep relationship with God I questioned Him and asked Him how I could make it more real.

During one Tuesday night worship Troy Roberts stood up and talked about a one mission trip to Cambodia going at the end of that year. I prayed about it as he spoke. I felt that God was saying, "Yes, I want you to go." I went up to the front of the church after worship had finished and put my name down.

The thing which hit me most about Cambodian culture was the way that families worked together to serve and support each other. I began to think about service to others in a whole new way.

When I came back from Cambodia I really wanted to continue serving God by helping people. I thought about Jesus' life and how everything He did was an act of service to others

Since then I have had a number of opportunities to serve people here in my own community. At every time I have always been amazed at how God co-ordinates just the right number of people to help.

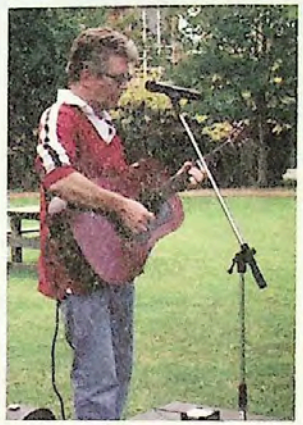

It's been so awesome to be a part of the Tools leadership team, to touch lives one at a time by letting people know that we care enough to do something practical to help.

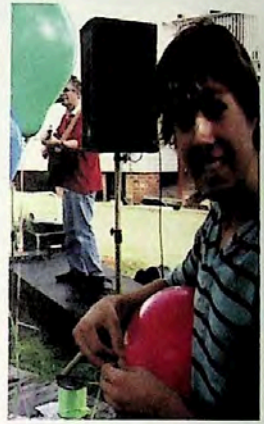

I am so grateful that God took the initiative in leading me to realise that service to others is what makes my relationship with Him more real.

SANDY CREEK TRACK

Jason and Darren Morton, with the help of college students, have begun establishing excellent walking tracks around Avondale College Estate.

Cambodia. Cambodia pushed me, moulded me, tested me, and changed me.
My Piac experience at a little orphanage school called Wat Preah Yesu in Cambodia was an experience I'll never forget!

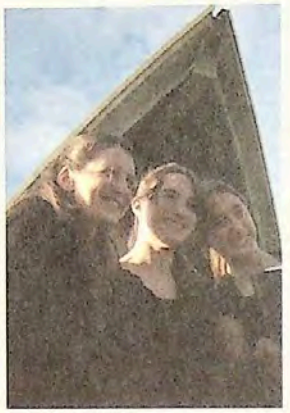

I left Australia ready to change the world and determined to make a difference. I went to offer my second year Avondale teaching abilities, to offer up my luxories of cat food and dorm showers. I went to offer myself, my abilities, my service while I was there I taught my students to the best of my ability, I played with the orphans, I showered in a pump, I ate rice everyday. I taught them English, read them stories, helped out in their homes... I attempted to make Wat Preah Yesu a better place, but Wat Prey Yesu made me a better person!

I will never forget their smiling faces, their tight embraces, their eagerness to learn, their energy for life; their dark eyes of innocence, yet knowledge of pain. Navin, Srey Mao, Srey Nak, Soksin: these children are from a world that knows pain, they understand hurt, have been rejected—yet they taught me, who has everything, to love more freely, to give more generously, to accept more readily.
These children made me question my obsession on appearance – when I was created. My craving for acceptance – when I know I was bought with a high price. My clasp on money – that is not mine, but His.

I don't know if Cambodia became a better place after our 'service,' but I do know that my experience in Cambodia made me a better person.

STORM C.O. service to others really matters

I was a clown while I was on storm co all week. My name for the week was "blitz de clown". Dan was "George the clown" and he drove the bus. We would have to drive 20 mins up to Pilliga each day. On the way we passed a few blokes in their landcruisers. Later we heard back in town there was all this talk about a bunch of clowns driving around in a bus. the first time we got to Pilliga we drove door to door to let the kids know we were there for the week, and that they could come with us if they wanted. can you imagine two weird clowns knocking on your door asking you if they could take your kids away? As a Parent I wouldnt have handed my children over to these random clowns, but they did! Each day we would empty that town of all their kids. Storm Co has been running at Gwabegar for more than a decade now. It wasn't Dan or I who got those kids on the bus each day. It was the dedication of all those who had come before us. they have established trust and respect in this small town. they have brought laughter and joy to an outback community. they have been the hands and feet of Jesus, and I'm glad I got to be a part of it.

You have now reached the end of the 2009 Jacaranda. Sad... I know. Don't worry, you can go back to the beginning and go through it all again. But, before you do I'd love to take this chance to tell you a bit more about my design.

Our theme (as I'm sure you must have figured out by now) is 'a better world.' As I was thinking about this, I automatically started thinking about ways to change the world like saving the whales, reducing carbon emissions, helping in the third world and so on. These are big goals, but I'm only one person. I ended up feeling overwhelmed and powerless to change anything. Then it hit me, maybe a better world isn't about changing the world at all. Maybe it's about changing me and the way I interact with the people around me.

This is where my design concept for this year's Jacaranda came from. The design is based on the idea of a sketchbook. A sketchbook or journal is a personal item used for recording memories or inspiration and keeping yourself accountable. It is, at its best, a well-loved, well-worn book that is constantly evolving and changing. It is not clean and clinical, it is raw and honest. This, I believe, is what it takes to create a better world. It takes people who are willing to be raw and honest, who are willing to be accountable, to constantly evolve and change.
