

Avondale University

ResearchOnline@Avondale

Education Papers and Journal Articles

School of Education and Science

11-2016

The Four 'H' Teaching Strategy: An Interactive, Multisensory Approach to Teaching Bible

Barbara J. Fisher

Avondale College of Higher Education, colbara40@gmail.com

Follow this and additional works at: https://research.avondale.edu.au/edu_papers

Part of the Education Commons, and the Religion Commons

Recommended Citation

Fisher, B. (2016). The four h teaching strategy: An interactive, multisensory approach to teaching bible. The Journal of Adventist Education, 78(5), 16-26.

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the School of Education and Science at ResearchOnline@Avondale. It has been accepted for inclusion in Education Papers and Journal Articles by an authorized administrator of ResearchOnline@Avondale. For more information, please contact alicia.starr@avondale.edu.au.

The Four H Teaching Strategy

An Interactive, Multisensory Approach to Teaching Bible

Daily Bible lessons in elementary and secondary classrooms may be likened to a serial story. Each Bible passage reveals a little more of the unfolding Cosmic Conflict meta-narrative¹ and God's yearning for each human being to be part of His kingdom. Adventist Bible teachers have the daily privilege of sharing this message with their students.

Preparing a Bible lesson requires a different set of criteria from any other lesson in the curriculum. These lessons deal with cognitive, affective, and spiritual dimensions of life and have the potential to inspire students to change their world for the better, not for selfish reasons, but for godly inspired reasons.

The best Bible lesson plan is only words on a page unless it is brought to life by the teacher and the power of the Holy Spirit. Bill McNabb and

Steven Mabry warn that "We have for far too long treated the Bible as Good Advice rather than as Good News. We need to approach Bible study as if we are about to discover together the greatest news ever heard."²

What Is The Four H Teaching Strategy?

The Four H Teaching Strategy is an interactive, multisensory approach to teaching Bible that assists teachers to prepare engaging and transformational Bible lesson plans. It was created by the author in response to

BY BARBARA FISHER

Box 1. The Four H's

The Four H's explained:

- History—listening and discovering. It provides an overview of where each Bible story fits into the Cosmic Conflict metanarrative; and includes Bible reading, biblical history, world history, cultural information, maps, and timelines.
- Head—learning and knowing. The children gain knowledge about God and familiarity with the Bible stories. This includes the development of inquiry skills.
- Heart—loving and responding. It provides opportunity for spiritual (emotional) engagement, heartfelt commitment, and response to the story.
- Hand—living and giving. It explores ways to apply and implement this story in the lives of the students and for them to share it with others in the community.

It should be noted that these strategies are not necessarily applied in chronological order; they often overlap and may occur several times during the lesson.

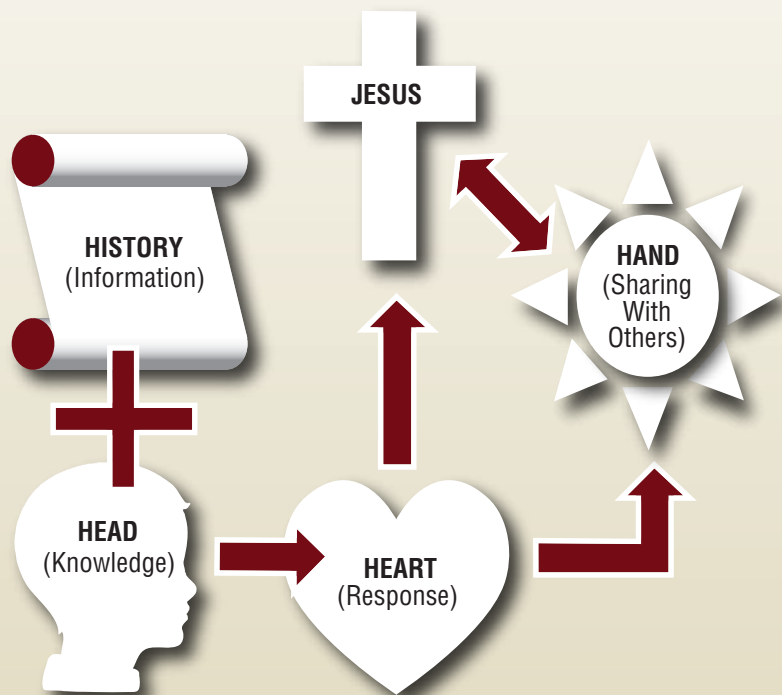

21st-century Adventist students' complaints about having to endure passive, seemingly irrelevant and uninteresting Bible lessons and the realization that teachers were confused about where to place the emphasis in the Bible lesson, i.e., on the knowledge section or the life-application section. The Four H Teaching Strategy (History, Head, Heart, and Hand) is designed to place equal emphasis on each of the Four H's, thus ensuring a balance between Bible knowledge and life-application in an interactive and modality-based learning approach. It is currently used by pre-service teachers at Avondale College of Higher Education in Coorabong, New South Wales, Australia, to assist them in developing interactive, multisensory Bible lessons that encourage and cultivate reflective thought in culturally diverse classrooms.

A modality-based instructional approach was selected from a variety of learning-style approaches because the author believed that by combining modality-based instruction with (a) sensory learning; (b) reflective thinking; and (c) multiple intelligences, that best-practice, active learning for 21st-century culturally diverse classrooms could be more readily achieved. The Four H's could therefore potentially provide every student with a variety of active learning tactics/methods that would empower them to:

1. utilize their learning strengths via the sensory modalities of touching, tasting, smelling, listening, and talking;
2. acknowledge their preferential way(s) of learning, e.g., visual, auditory, reading and writing, and kinesthetic³;
3. maximize their learning potential by offering more than one way of engaging with the material;
4. experience interactive rather than passive learning; and
5. engage in reflective thought.

Central to every Four H's Bible lesson is engagement with and reading from the Bible; therefore, each student needs: (1) his or her own copy of the

Figure 1. The Four H Teaching Strategy Model

History and Head knowledge are powerless without a Heart response, and a Heart response provides the impetus for Hand(s) to demonstrate and share a personal and committed relationship to Jesus.

Bible; (2) the opportunity to individually engage with and reflect upon God’s Word according to his or her cognitive stage; and (3) time to interactively engage with and read God’s Word.

Bible Lesson Preparation Using The Four H Teaching Strategy

A typical lesson plan is a written description of the academic content to be taught. It includes a detailed organizational structure of content, method for organizing the learning, the focus and desired outcomes, and supporting resources. A Bible lesson, using The Four H Teaching Strategy, includes all the above but becomes so much more because the lesson deals with eternal consequences.

In a typical Bible lesson plan, the Learning Procedure (or Lesson Plan) includes three main sections: Introduction, Development, and Conclusion. The Four H Teaching Strategy can be applied in all three sections of the Learning Procedure. For example: During the Bible lesson Introduction section, History, Head, or Heart phases can be utilized to hook students, or gain their attention. The next section, the Development of the lesson, incorporates the Head and History phases to provide the setting, essential background information, and a knowledge base for studying the Bible story or passage. Once the Bible knowledge base has been established and developed, spiritual engagement and a commitment response from the Heart phase become appropriate. Finally, during the Conclusion section of the lesson, the Hand and Heart phases can help the teacher initiate discussions about applying the story to the student’s life and discovering ways to engage in personal outreach.

The Four H Teaching Strategy sample lesson plans, presented later in this article (Tables 2 and 3), demonstrate the implementation of the Four H’s for different age groups. Table 1 outlines a sample of the variety of

Table 1. Examples of the Use of Sensory and Modality-based Learning in Bible Lessons
1. Visual displays	Maps; artwork; Bible artifacts; videos; picture books; timelines; object lessons
2. Multisensory experiences	Touching thorns; feeling lambswool; holding sand; smelling perfume; making and tasting unleavened bread; imagining being a bystander in a Bible story and then describing the scene
3. Bible reading	Interactive; silent; choral; Readers Theater ⁴ ; paired reading; comparing texts from different Bible versions
4. Discussions	Listening to; participating in; cause-and-effect tables for biblical character actions; Think-Pair-Share ⁵ ; “What if. . .?”;
5. Music	Making; listening to; composing; singing
6. Researching information	Internet; interviews; dialogues; Bible dictionary; Bible atlas; concordance
7. Reflective thinking ⁶	Journaling; quiet reflections; learning logs
8. Art and artistry	Painting; video production; diorama construction; 3-D creations; plays and dramas sensory- and modality-based ideas available for teachers to utilize when planning Four H’s interactive, multisensory, and modality-based Bible lessons.

The teacher can nurture, mentor, and guide as students encounter and experience the information presented during History, Head, Heart, and Hand components of the strategy. “As we help our kids to get inside the Bible, they will discover that it challenges and confronts many of their attitudes and actions.”⁷

The Checklist for a Quality Bible Lesson

A lesson is only as good as the teacher who presents it. If it is meaningful for the teacher, then it will more likely be meaningful for the students. “Our job as Bible teachers is more than getting our students to understand what the Bible says about a particular issue; we must help them understand what God is saying to them personally.”⁸

The Checklist for a Quality Bible Lesson (Box 2) seeks to assist the teacher in planning and teaching Bible lessons that help students to “understand what God is saying to them personally.”⁹ Each part of a Bible lesson can be likened to a piece in a jigsaw puzzle. To see the complete picture, each piece is essential. The pieces in this Bible lesson jigsaw puzzle, and their role in the Bible lesson, are as follows:

1. The teacher’s private devotions and prayer, a clear lesson focus, lesson outcomes, resources, and the learning context, which help to establish the spiritual direction of the Bible lesson;
2. The teaching approach and at-

Box 2. Checklist for a Quality Bible Lesson

- Prayer: The divine power source for the lesson, teacher, and student.
- A clear and attainable lesson focus: Shows where the lesson is headed and that the teacher has a clear goal in mind.
- Appropriate and achievable learning outcomes and indicators: Describe what learning is to occur and how it will be achieved. The lesson is evaluated against these behavioral indicators.
- A variety of resources: Adds variety and sensory input. Should be kept simple so as not to distract from the lesson.
- Learning context: Indicates how the lesson fits into the “big picture” of the unit and how its concepts are built on prior learning.
- An active, multisensory learning approach: Ensures that learning is participatory, engaging, and multisensory by using a variety of sensory modalities (touching, tasting, smelling, listening, and talking).
- Learning styles and Gardner’s Multiple Intelligences: Accommodates different learning styles (e.g., visual, auditory, and kinaesthetic) and ensures learner participation.¹⁰
- The Bible reference: Helps the students understand the context of the story in the Scriptures and gives them practice in navigating their way around the Bible.
- A lesson hook: An active and engaging introduction to the lesson. A quick way to engage the students and arouse their interest in the lesson to ensure so that they become actively involved in the learning. If a revision step is needed from a previous lesson, the teacher should provide some motivation for learning before beginning this step.
- A learning procedure that includes Introduction, Development, and Conclusion: Bloom’s Taxonomy encourages higher-order thinking skills since it provides a logical way to organize learning.¹¹
- The Four H Teaching Strategy:
 - History – listening and discovering;
 - Head – learning and knowing;
 - Heart – loving and responding;
 - Hand – living and giving.
- An interactive reading of the Bible: A meaningful reading of the biblical passage being studied that involves both the teacher and the students.
- Stimulating conclusion idea(s): Restates the main points of the lesson and aids in evaluation of a student learning. This is the final “punch line” of the Bible lesson.
- The 3P Storytelling Technique to learn and practice when telling a story.¹² Helps the teacher become a convincing storyteller who has not only memorized the story, but also shares the transcendent and loving God.
- Personal evaluation: Occurs at the end of the lesson. The teacher celebrates what went well in the lesson, ascertains how effectively the lesson indicators were achieved, and identifies areas that need additional development.

tention to learning styles, which cater to individual student learning needs;

3. The Learning Procedure (or Lesson Plan), which outlines the proposed teaching process and the implementation of The Four H Teaching Strategy;

4. The storytelling outline, which provides evidence of a multisensory, modality-based, engaging, and planned instructional experience;

5. The conclusion section, which provides a time for reflection and personal application for all students; and

6. The teacher’s personal-evaluation section, which enables him or her to celebrate the positive aspects of the lesson while also determining the sections that need further development.

Reading a Bible story from the textbook is not the most dynamic way to engage students in the Bible lesson, so to encourage and assist teachers to become effective and engaging storytellers, the *3P Storytelling Technique*¹³ has been included in the Checklist. Sometimes, Bible stories are told without any reference to the Bible or any indication of where the story is located. To ensure that these two important Bible concepts are not overlooked, the Checklist includes an interactive Bible reading¹⁴ and the location of each Bible passage.

“Heart” Questions and Discussion Starters

The reflective questions in Box 3 can assist students to make the Heart (loving and responding) connection between the Bible lesson and its personal relevance and application. A simple “Yes/No” question can become a reflective question when “Why/Why not” is included (e.g., see Question 4 in Box 3). Some questions in the list are designed for personal and private reflection, while others may be supported by group reflections and interactions.

Box 3. Examples of Heart Questions and Discussion Starters

1. How would your life be different if you really took this passage seriously?¹⁵
2. Do you have a relationship with Jesus? If so, what does it mean to you?
3. Explain which character(s) in the Bible passage remind you of Jesus. Why?
4. Are you like/unlike any of the characters in the Bible passage we read today? Why/Why not?
5. What part(s) of this Bible passage demonstrate God's love? Why?
6. Ask yourself: "What is God saying to me through this passage?"¹⁶
7. What is the Good News for you in this Bible passage?
8. How will you respond to the spiritual truths that you have uncovered in this Bible passage? Why?
9. How can learning about people in the Bible help you to be more like Jesus?

Hand Questions and Discussion Starters

To assist teachers in applying the Hand phase (living and giving) of the Four H's, each question in Box 4 includes examples that could be implemented in a supportive classroom environment. Please note: These examples cover a range of cognitive stages, so check age-appropriateness before implementation.

History and Head Evaluation Ideas

The examples listed in Figure 2 demonstrate the variety of available interactive, multisensory activities that can be used to assess the information gained from the History (lis-

Box 4. Examples of Hand Questions and Discussion Starters

1. How can you share this special message and God's love with others?

Develop a list of ways to share the special message from the current Bible story about God's love in a kind way; role play non-confrontational interactions; create personal diary recordings of how you and your classmates have shared God's love with others; invite a non-Christian friend to Sabbath school or church.

2. How can you make your community (home, school, church, town) a better place? Why should you do this?

Organize students to share God's love in community-service programs and through engaging in social-justice issues: e.g., sharing random acts of kindness; mentoring a younger child; making cookies and delivering them to a homeless shelter with a Bible verse included; preparing a surprise "Thank You" party for the school janitors; volunteering at an animal shelter; assisting a fellow student who is physically or mentally challenged; preparing food parcels for the disadvantaged.

3. How might you explain and demonstrate God's love to a friend?

Discuss this question as a class, then divide into small groups to develop and record ways the students think would be appropriate to share God's love with a friend: e.g., explain what Jesus means to you on a personal level; give your friend a Bible if he or she doesn't have one and wants one; share a personal testimony or answered prayer). Discuss ways to do that, and then engage in experiences demonstrating God's love (e.g., being respectful of someone's personal opinion, listening without being judgmental, choosing to participate in unselfish service opportunities).

4. Why is it important to learn about Bible people and their stories?

Discuss the impact of Bible stories for 21st-century students by researching the consequences of King David's involvement with Bathsheba—particularly highlighting the effects of his actions on his descendants; research the results of Ruth's faithfulness on her descendants; compare a well-known current local "hero" and his or her lifestyle choices with those of a Bible character.

5. What is the difference between "being" and "acting like" a Christian?

Ask the students to form small groups and discuss the role of social media in influencing personal Christianity; discuss with students how to develop Christian discernment; with student collaboration, create a set of media-viewing guidelines for Christians: e.g., Internet sites, videos, films, video games, etc.

6. What is your role in the Cosmic Conflict?

Create a collage of all the events in the newspaper for one day that illustrate the Cosmic Conflict; identify how the Cosmic Conflict is evident in the classroom; brainstorm ways the class can witness to their peers about the Cosmic Conflict.

7. Explore some community activities in which you could become involved in order to share the Good News in practical ways.

Construct a list of activities in which the class can collaborate to share the Good News in the neighborhood and then follow through with these ideas: e.g., raise money for a local charity; collect religious library books for a needy Christian school; prepare get-well cards with a Bible promise written inside and deliver them to the local hospital.

8. Explain why you think this story is in the Bible.

Use the sensory modalities to answer this reflection through music, art, drama, writing, poetry, etc., and perform the production at a school assembly, the local church, a retirement village, a preschool, a local fair, etc.

Figure 2. Examples of History and Head Evaluation Ideas

1. True or False Quiz: Students create questions based on the story and place them in a box. One child is chosen to draw a question from the box and read it to the rest of the class. The person who answers the question correctly then chooses and reads the next question from the box.
2. What/Who am I? A student chooses a character from the Bible story in the lesson and gives clues that help his or her classmates guess who is being represented.
3. Stump the Expert: One at a time, the students ask an “expert” (a child chosen from the class) questions about the Bible passage/story until he or she is stumped, after which the questioner takes the place of the “expert.”
4. Place the objects in the correct order: Students arrange the Bible objects in the sequence in which they occurred/appeared in the story.
5. Round Robin¹⁷ Story: While seated in a circle, the students re-create the Bible story, one sentence at a time. The first person introduces the story with a single sentence, after which the person to his or her right adds another sentence, and so on, going around the circle as many times as necessary until the story is completed.
6. Drama: Students dramatize a portion of the Bible story, after which their classmates guess what section they have portrayed.
7. Sing or create a song: Students sing or create a song on the topic of the day’s Bible lesson.
8. Puzzle: Students design a word/picture puzzle about the Bible passage.
9. Interview: Two students are selected, one to act as an interviewer, the other as the Bible character.
10. Story cube: Write the main ideas of the Bible passage on the sides of a cube¹⁸ and ask each student, in turn, to roll the cube and tell what happened before or after the main idea on the face of the cube facing him or her.
11. Place the Bible character(s) on a timeline: Draw a timeline on butcher paper (teacher) and post it at the front of the classroom. Ask the students to place the characters from the current Bible passage in the correct right timeslot. This can be a cumulative activity that continues throughout the year.
12. Find the town/country/city: Each student has access to a world map or Bible lands map. Challenge them to see who can find a specified town, city, or country first as you call out the name. The winner chooses the next location.
13. Incorporate De Bono’s six thinking hats¹⁹: Use the six thinking hats to analyze and discuss an issue raised in a Bible story (e.g., Matthew 21:12, Jesus turning over the money tables in the temple).

tening and discovering) and Head (learning and knowing) phases of the Bible lesson.

Introduction to Sample Bible Lesson Plans²⁰

The lesson plans in Tables 2 and 3 demonstrate how the Checklist for a Quality Bible Lesson can be applied.

A Sample Bible Lesson Plan for Ages 4 to 6 (see page 22)

This lesson uses the parable of the lost sheep to explore with young children the concept of God’s love as represented by Jesus as the Good Shepherd. The lesson uses the analogy of the child being like the sheep in the story and Jesus as the Good Shepherd (the word Farmer is often used as well, since many shepherds were also farmers) who loves all His sheep and cares for them.

Suggestions for Planning a Lesson for This Age Group:

- Because children 4 to 6 years of age are concrete thinkers and have a limited vocabulary, explain everything simply and at the concrete level using modality-based and sensory learning resources;
 - Keep the Bible story engaging, simple, graphic, fast-moving, and short, as this age group has a limited attention span;
 - Because most children don’t live in an agrarian society, the relationship between shepherd and sheep needs to be explored through multisensory experiences;
 - Give the children time to respond to the story, in their own way, by using multisensory resources to help them “wonder about” and retell the story;
 - Provide each child with an easy-to-read Bible so he or she can interactively read the story with the teacher.

A Sample Bible Lesson Plan for Students Ages 12 +

The second lesson plan (see Table 3 on page 23) explores the Old Testament Book of Amos and was prepared for students age 12 and above. It employs the same concept of interactive and multimodality-based learning as in Example 1 (Table 2), but the learning level is more advanced, with greater academic and reflective requirements, an increasing complexity of tasks, and different age-appropriate learning-outcome expectations.

Tips for Planning a Lesson for Students Ages 12+:

1. If students are going to be able to explain why they believe what they believe and give a reason for their faith, then it is vital to include reflective thought opportunities, through the inclusion of WHY questions, at this stage of cognition and faith formation;
2. Small-group discussions and an understanding of the relevance of Bible study will empower students to (1) stay engaged and on task and (2) become reflective thinkers;
3. As students mature through this

Continued on page 25

Table 2. A Sample Bible Lesson Plan for Ages 4 to 6

A BIBLE LESSON PLAN (30 MINUTES)

Learning Focus:	Jesus loves me and cares for me just as a farmer/shepherd looks after and cares for his sheep.
Outcome:	The student appreciates Bible stories portraying aspects of God's character and redemptive action.
Indicators:	At the end of this lesson, each student will be encouraged to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Express personal views about the actions of a Bible character (Head); • Attempt to read Bible stories in a suitable publication (History); • Outline the main events in the parable of the Good Shepherd (Head); • Discuss the spiritual concept that Jesus wants to look after us because He loves us (Heart); and • Apply the spiritual concept by discussing how he or she will share this story with friends (Hand).
Learning Context:	This lesson is another in a series of Bible lessons illustrating stories Jesus told about God's love in terms a young child can comprehend.
Learning Resources:	1. Bible 2. Jigsaw puzzle	3. Box for soft toy 4. Soft toy—lamb, shepherd puppet	5. Bible storybook: "Where's the Lost Sheep?" ²¹

LEARNING PROCEDURE

Introduction:

3 minutes

Displaying/Questioning

- Pray.
- After hiding one piece of a jigsaw puzzle somewhere in the classroom, hand out the rest of the pieces to the members of the class, and ask them to assemble the puzzle. When they discover that one piece is missing, have them search for it. After they find the missing piece, discuss briefly how this relates to the story in today's lesson.
- Say: "At the end of today's story, we'll see if you can tell what animal went missing in the story."

DEVELOPMENT

11 minutes

Narrating/Explaining (History)

Narrate the story from the farmer's/shepherd's perspective using the props at the appropriate time.

Orientation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Jesus, seated on a hill, tells a story; • Farm yard and sheep; • Farmer/shepherd looks after the sheep;
Complication	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Farmer/shepherd takes sheep to a new field; • One sheep goes missing;
Resolution	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Farmer/shepherd looks for lost sheep; • Farmer/shepherd finds sheep;
Conclusion	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Farmer/shepherd takes lost sheep back to the field.

5 minutes	Questioning/Discussing (Heart) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • In the story, what animal went missing? • Who went to find it? • Have you ever been lost? • How did you feel when you were lost? • Who went to find you? • Why did they look for you? • Jesus is like our parents and the farmer/shepherd in the story because He loves us and wants to look after us. • Teacher sings: “Jesus Is the Shepherd”²² Jesus is the shepherd. Guess who I am? Such a lovely secret I’m His little lamb. • Let us bow our heads and say, “Thank You” to Jesus for loving us.
7 minutes	Directing and Interacting <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Interactively read the story from the Bible (Luke 15:4-6) (History). • As they read the story, ask the students to look for several words (e.g., farmer, Jesus, sheep, shepherd) in their Bible that have been written on cards and given to various class members. Every time his or her word is read, the child holds up the appropriate card. • A child retells the story using the soft toy (Head). • One child will act out the story of being lost, and another child looks for the lost classmate (Head).
CONCLUSION
4 minutes	Displaying/Discussing/Sharing/Questioning <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Read an interactive book about the lost sheep (History). • Ask: “How can you share this Bible story with your friends?” (Hand). • Students and teacher sing together, “Jesus Is the Shepherd” (Heart).

Table 3. A Sample Bible Lesson Plan for Students Ages 12+

A BIBLE LESSON PLAN FOR STUDENTS AGES 12+ (55 MINUTES)²³
Learning Focus:	What does the Old Testament prophet Amos have to say that is relevant for people living in the 21st century?
Outcome:	The student explains how the Bible passages in Amos illustrate God’s yearning for His children to choose Him and live.
Indicators:	At the end of this lesson, each student will be encouraged to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Express personal views regarding the Book of Amos and its main theme (Head); • Read a Bible passage in a suitable publication (History); • Outline the main points of the story of Amos (Head); • Discuss the spiritual concept that God gives us the choice to respond to or reject His love (Heart); and • Participate in a discussion regarding the relevance of this story for today’s society (Hand).

Continued on next page

Learning Context:	This lesson is another in a series of Bible lessons discussing our relationship with God and our role in the Cosmic Conflict, especially the role of decisions and their consequences.
Learning Resources:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Bible, Bible atlas, Bible commentary, Bible dictionary • YouTube video: The Choices We Make: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8aoOAXqX6tA • Internet for researching the story of Amos (if available)
LEARNING PROCEDURE
Introduction:
3 minutes	Displaying/Questioning <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Pray. • Play video clip (56 seconds): The Choices We Make. • Say: Which Old Testament minor prophet encouraged the Israelites to “Seek the LORD and live”? (Amos 5:6, NIV).²⁴ Discuss responses (History, Head).
DEVELOPMENT
10 minutes	Directing/Researching/Sharing <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Divide the class into four-person Jigsaw Groups to research background information on the prophet Amos (History).²⁵ Students are to report their findings to their group. Use the Internet and Bible resources to assist the students in their discovery learning. • Expert Group 1: What is the physical setting and location for this Bible prophet and his story? • Expert Group 2: What was the Old Testament time frame for this prophet? • Expert Group 3: Who was prophesying to God’s people at the same time? • Expert Group 4: Describe what this prophet looked like and his heritage, and give Bible references to validate your description.
20 minutes	Questioning/Discussing/Reading/Displaying <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What is the message Amos was giving to the people of Israel? Ask each group to read and summarize the main theme of their allocated chapter (Chapters 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9) (History). <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Discuss each chapter theme with the entire class. List the recurring issues. What do you notice? Why did this occur? (Head). • Discuss: Do you hear pity or anger as Amos proclaims his prophecy? Verify your response from the Bible (Head). • Display: The chiastic structure (mirror structure), an ancient literary pattern used in the Book of Amos demonstrates that at the heart of Amos’ prophecy is not a message of doom but one of hope²⁶ (History).
12 minutes	Discussing <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Discuss in groups of two: “Divine threatenings are really conditional prophecies, their fulfillment or nonfulfillment being conditioned by our wrong or right action.”²⁷ How do you react to this quote? Why? Read Amos 9:11-15 (Heart). • How relevant is Amos’ appeal for us today? What have you learned from this prophet? How would you feel if you were referred to as someone who oppressed the poor and crushed the needy (Amos 4:1)? (Heart, Hand).

CONCLUSION

10 minutes

Displaying /Discussing/Questioning

- Divide the class into groups. Give each group a different-colored De Bono hat to discuss the statement and then complete the chart.²⁸ “The values and principles found in the Bible are relevant not only to their original audiences, but to us today”²⁹ (History, Head, Heart, Hand); OR ask:
- How do we make a decision to have a personal relationship with Jesus? Discuss (Heart); OR ask:
- How can we be like Amos in the 21st century? Discuss and then list results in a Discussion Web³⁰ (Hand).
- Silently and prayerfully consider this statement: “God does not force the will or judgment of any. He takes no pleasure in a slavish obedience. He desires that the creatures of his hands shall love him because he is worthy of love. He would have them obey him because they have an intelligent appreciation of his wisdom, justice, and benevolence”³¹ (Heart).

Continued from page 21

stage, there should be less teacher talk and more allocated time for student discovery learning, sharing, and wondering;

4. Because learning lacks meaning and purpose until applied, this age group requires real-life opportunities to share their faith through a variety of interactions, both inside and outside the classroom.

Conclusion

Teaching Bible lessons in the 21st century can be both daunting and challenging. Sometimes it seems that Adventist educators have an overwhelming responsibility, but we can call on supernatural help. Jeremiah 33:3 reminds teachers, “Call to me and I will answer you and tell you great and unsearchable things you do not know” (NIV).

If the next generation of young people is to embrace Christ as their personal Savior, they must, from infancy, have learned to know and love the Scriptures. By providing and engaging in an active multisensory, modality-based learning environment (The Four H Teaching Strategy), as described in this article, teachers can be assisted in their goal to introduce students, of all ages, to Jesus as their Friend, Guide, and Savior.

More than 100 years ago, Adventist teachers were reminded that: “The teaching of the Bible should have our freshest thought, our best methods, and our most earnest effort.”³² This statement and its aim are still relevant and crucial in the 21st century, but we cannot rely on the previous generation’s methodology to reach contemporary students. Today’s young people and children live in a constantly changing society; have unique lifestyle issues, and experience the world differently from previous generations. So Adventist teachers have been admonished to constantly seek for the “best methods” and ideas to meet these contemporary challenges while also ensuring that Bible teaching “has our freshest thought.” Students will see that Bible teaching is relevant, appropriate, and meaningful for all age groups and learning abilities when it engages the teacher’s “most earnest effort.” God has asked teachers to sow the seed. He has promised that He will look after the harvest.

Finally, it is the goal and prayer of the author that both student and teacher will have a transformational encounter with Jesus as they interactively study the Bible together through the multisensory experiential environment of The Four H Teaching Strategy. ✍

This article has been peer reviewed.

Barbara Fisher, M.A., recently retired as a senior lecturer from the School of Education at Avondale College of Higher Education, Coorabong, New South Wales, Australia, where she researched and lectured in Literacy and Religious Education (Curriculum Studies) for more than 25 years. She has taught in New Zealand and Australia and studied and taught in the U.S.A. Ms. Fisher has presented lectures on faith-based education for teacher in-service seminars in Australia, Mexico, and the South Pacific. She is passionate about faith-based education. Her book, Developing a Faith-based Education: A Teacher’s Manual (Terrigal, N.S.W., Australia: David Barlow Publishing, 2010), has been translated into Spanish and Russian. Recently, she completed A Reader’s Study Guide (available in English and Russian) that is designed to assist the reader in the application of and reflection on the information gleaned from each book chapter. She is currently a doctoral candidate at the Avondale College of Higher Education.

This article has been adapted from a chapter in the book Developing a Faith-based Education: A Teacher’s Manual (Terrigal, N.S.W.: David Barlow Publishing, 2010), and is printed with permission from the publisher and author. For more information about the book, see <http://avondaleaustralia.spiffystores.com/collections/books>.

NOTES AND REFERENCES

1. A metanarrative is a grand story that unfolds and reveals what is real, true, and of value to specific cultures or belief systems. The Bible as a metanarrative provides a portrait of the character of God, the Cosmic Conflict, and the ultimate hope of a world made new. See the following URL for a definition of a metanarrative: Keith Walters, Biblical Theology, Metanarrative, and Worldview (2009): <http://keithwalters.org/2015/01/13/1-biblical-theology-metanarrative-and-worldview/>. For more about a biblical metanarrative, see Barbara Fisher's "Bible Stories in the Classroom: The Why and the How," The Journal of Adventist Education 77:1 (October/November 2014):24-31: <http://circle.adventist.org/files/jae/en/jae201477012408.pdf>. Websites in the endnotes were accessed June 20, 2016.

2. Bill McNabb and Steven Mabry, Teaching the Bible Creatively: How to Awaken Your Kids to Scripture (Grand Rapids, Mich.: Zondervan Publishing House, 1990), p. 21.

3. Alan Pritchard, Ways of Learning: Learning Theories and Learning Styles in the Classroom, 2nd ed. (New York: Routledge, 2009), 45, 46; Howard Gardner, Multiple Intelligences: The Theory in Practice (New York: Basic Books, 1993).

4. For information about Readers Theater, see <http://research.avondale.edu.au/cgi/viewcontent.cgi?article=1104&context=teach>.

5. For a description of Think-Pair-Share, see <http://www.readwritethink.org/professional-development/strategy-guides/using-think-pair-share-30626.html>.

6. For information about Reflective Thinking, see <http://www.napavalley.edu/people/jhall/Documents/JHallUsing%20Critical%20Reflection%20Exercises%20F2012.pdf>.

7. McNabb and Mabry, Teaching the Bible Creatively: How to Awaken Your Kids to Scripture, op. cit.

8. Ibid., p. 27.

9. Ibid.

10. For a detailed description of how to use Gardner's Multiple Intelligences in a lesson, see Chapter 3, "Children and Learning" by Beverly Christian's Developing a Faith-based Education: A Teacher's Manual (Terrigal, N.S.W., Australia: David Barlow Publishing, 2010); and Maurice Ryan's Teaching the Bible: A Manual of Teaching Activities, Commentary, and Blackline Masters (Katoomba, N.S.W., Australia: Social Science Press, 2001), pages 59-62.

11. Bloom's Taxonomy is explained at <http://w3.unisa.edu.au/gradquals/staff/program/blooms.asp>. A Bible lesson example is available in Ryan's Teaching the Bible: A Manual of Teaching Activities, Commentary, and Blackline Masters, ibid., pages 41, 42.

12. For an explanation of the 3P Storytelling Technique, see chapter 8, pages 127-130 in the book, Developing a Faith-based Education: A Teacher's Manual (Terrigal, N.S.W., Australia: David Barlow Publishing, 2010).

13. For an explanation of the 3P Storytelling Technique, see chapter 8, pages 127-130 in the book, Developing a Faith-based Education: A Teacher's Manual, op. cit.

14. See an example in Table 2, A Bible Lesson Plan for Ages 4-6. For age-appropriate ideas for interactively reading the Bible in the classroom, see also chapter 11, pages 164-167 in the book Developing a Faith-based Education: A Teacher's Manual, ibid.

15. McNabb and Mabry, Teaching the Bible Creatively: How to Awaken Your Kids to Scripture, op. cit., p. 27.

16. Ibid.

17. Gavin Clowes, The Essential 5: A Starting Point for Kagan Cooperative Learning (San Clemente, Calif.: Kagan Publishing. Kagan Online Magazine, Spring 2011): http://www.kaganonline.com/free_articles/research_and_rationale/330/The-Essential-5-A-Starting-Point-for-Kagan-Cooperative-Learning.

18. See cube information at <http://www.readwritethink.org/classroomresources/student-interactives/cube-creator-30850.html>.

19. See De Bono Hats information at http://www.debonoforschools.com/asp/six_hats.asp; and Ryan, Teaching the Bible: A Manual of Teaching Activities, Commentary, and Blackline Masters, op. cit., page 125.

20. The following information concerning lesson-planning skills, writing, and techniques assumes the teacher has a basic understanding of the role and place of lesson planning, the various classroom questioning skills and techniques, and knowledge of time-management strategies. For a more detailed description and in-depth knowledge of lesson writing, refer to any one of the numerous pedagogy books available on the subject.

21. Charlotte Laughlin, Where's the Lost Sheep? (Dallas, Texas: Word Publishing, 1992).

22. This song is available at <http://www.temkit.com/06-Know-Jesus/KnowJesus.htm>.

23. This lesson plan could be divided into two lessons and expanded.

24. Bible texts marked NIV are quoted from Holy Bible, New International Version®, NIV® Copyright © 1973, 1978, 1984, 2011 by Biblica, Inc.® Used by permission. All rights reserved worldwide.

25. For an explanation of Jigsaw Groups, see <http://www.jigsaw.org/overview.htm> and <https://www.teachervision.com/groupwork/cooperative-learning/48532.html>.

26. Check "Chiastic Structure" as explained in Sabbath School Teacher's Lesson Helps: "Seek the Lord and Live, Amos," Second Quarter (April 27-May 3, 2013), Lesson 5, pages 61, 62: http://www.absg.adventist.org/2013/2Q/TE/PDFs/ETQ213_05.pdf.

27. The Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary (Washington, D.C.: Review and Herald Publ. Assn., 1976), vol. 4, p. 976.

28. Ryan, Teaching the Bible: A Manual of Teaching Activities, Commentary, and Blackline Masters, op. cit., p. 125.

29. McNabb and Mabry, Teaching the Bible Creatively: How to Awaken Your Kids to Scripture, op. cit., p. 22.

30. Ryan, Teaching the Bible: A Manual of Teaching Activities, Commentary, and Blackline Masters, op. cit., p. 112.

31. Ellen G. White, The Great Controversy (Mountain View, Calif.: Pacific Press Publ. Assn., 1950), p. 541.

32. _____, Education (Mountain View, Calif.: Pacific Press Publ. Assn., 1903), p. 186.